Americans Can Fly.
A Wasted Life.
Stocks Wha Hae.
Money in the Purse.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

AMERICANS CAN fly, and prove it. Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, on their way around the world planning to make the trip "in 10 days," if possible, dropped down at the Royal Air Force airdrome in England at 7:45 a. m., New York time, yesterday, beating all world's records.

THEY STAYED 40 minutes in England, then started for Moscow via Berlin. Later in the day they landed at Berlin and today they flew to Moscow. That would interest Jules Verne, who described a purely imaginary trip around the world in EIGHTY DAYS.

OKLAHOMA IS interested in that flight. Wiley Post lives in Oklahoma City. The flying ship is named "Winnie Mae," who is the wife of Leslie Payne, whose father backed the expedition.

Flying will be a "regular business" some day, and soon.

RECENTLY THE body of a very young woman was found washed up by the surf near New York. Photographs show that she was most beautiful as a child and a marvelously beautiful girl at 18. The waves washed up a young woman barely 20, ruined by alcohol, drugs and the life to which they lead.

Murder had been suspected, but letters written to a man show that it was suicide. One public official says the letters were forged to shield a murderer, but no murderer could have written the notes; the letters are too genuine.

THE UNHAPPY girl writes that she made "a sordid, futureless mess" of her life on earth, did not "want to ruin anybody else's life."

She goes out of this world hoping and believing that there is no life beyond.

"If there is an after-life, it would be a dirty trick, but I am sure 50,000,000 priests are wrong. Nothing makes any difference now."

"IT IS NO ONE'S fault but my own. I hate everything so—life is so horrible. I take dope to forget, and drink to try to like people, but it is of no use."

"No fault but my own," she wrote. But it is also the fault of a system that permits selling dope and bootleg whisky to young girls, and there are men, surviving this girl, who know that it is THEIR FAULT.

IN WALL STREET yesterday, stocks that had been

"As idle as a painted ship Upon a painted ocean"

suddenly came to life, bounding into activity. Issues that had done nothing sold over 100,000 shares in a hurry. Five million shares were sold during the day.

"PUT MONEY in thy purse," was good advice. Money is frozen labor, that can be released and used as you choose. Money is power; money, to a large extent, is government. Money says "come," and they come; "go," and they go.

MANY, well-meaning, said the great trees in the redwoods of California's Bull Creek flat should be saved. Museums, naturalists, clergymen, all said "Save those trees." Then John D. Rockefeller, Jr., suggested that the best way to save the trees would be to buy and protect them. He agreed to match the money of others, up to $1,000,000, and in addition gave another million dollars, given outright. "Money talks." The trees will be saved.

CALVIN COOLIDGE tells readers of his articles in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and Chicago Herald and Examiner and other papers that he thinks, with all our industrial distress "a home on the farm begins to look attractive."

He believes there may come a movement back to the land, that popularity will return to "the farm and old-fashioned home with diversified crops, fruit, domestic animals, sufficient to meet the household needs."

It is a better home than when Calvin Coolidge knew it, than's to electric light and power, concrete floors to keep out rats, copper screens to keep out mosquitoes, and their chills and fever.

BANKERS CONVICTED of inflicting loss and hardship on 400,000 depositors, impoverishing many families, go to prison for three to six years. It is fortunate for them that they were not convicted in Italy under Mussolini.

Those that describe our civilization 500 years hence will report that a poverty-stricken man could be sent to jail longer for stealing a pair of boots than a banker could be sent for stealing millions.

Hillig, Hoiriis Reach German Airport With Tank Dry; Post, Gatty Make Moscow

International News Service.

KREFELD, Germany, June 25.—At a moment when the world was ready to give them up for lost, Otto Hillig, Liberty (N. Y.) photographer and flying enthusiast, and Holger Hoiriis, young Danish pilot, landed their white plane Liberty here at 5:30 p. m. today (12:30 p. m. Pittsburgh time), after a successful flight across the North Atlantic.

They took off for Copenhagen at 1:45 o'clock. Hillig said:

"We lost our way over Spain and France and exhausted our fuel. Otherwise we would have reached Copenhagen easily."

The plane's fuel tanks were empty when it landed.

The flight which thus came to an unexpected and happy conclusion began at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, at 4:54 a. m., (Pittsburgh time) yesterday. Hillig and Hoiriis, described themselves as "a couple of immigrants returning home," hoped to reach Copen-

Mellon Arrives In Paris to Push Debt Truce Plan

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT

PARIS, June, 25.—(INS.)—Admitting "so many things had happened" that he could no longer consider his European trip a private undertaking, United States Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon arrived in Paris from London this evening to discuss President Hoover's war debt proposal with French government officials.

Secretary Mellon arrived only a short while after official announcement that an invitation had been extended to Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and Foreign Minister Dr. Julius Curtius, of Germany, to come to Paris next Tuesday for an international conference similar to that held with British officials at Chequers early in the month.

Upon arrival, Secretary Mellon said:

"I had not intended to visit Paris at all this trip. The entire journey originally was a private undertaking, but so many things have happened meanwhile that I have been obliged to change my personal plans.

"I haven't the slightest idea how long I will remain in Paris."

Thomas Myerscough, self-admitted leader of the fatal march on Wildwood mine which resulted in the death of one man and injuries to 12 others, told deputy sheriffs he and his followers knew there was an injunction against strike demonstrations aimed at the Butler Consolidated Coal Company and that he and his followers were not going to pay attention to the court order, it was testified today by William E. Braun.

Braun was in charge of the contingent of deputy sheriffs which broke up the gathering with tear gas and bullets.

ONLY 11 IDENTIFIED

Only 11 were positively identified as having been on the scene of the disorder. Attorney B. Robert Averbach, solicitor for Sheriff Robert S. Cain, asked continuance of the case on the promise to produce witnesses to identify all of the 42 persons under arrest.

Because of the smallness of Alderman Anderson's office, it was necessary to divide the group into two parts. Only 23 were arraigned today and, when they could not be identified by the two deputies called as witnesses, they were recommitted to jail and the whole case continued until tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

Jacob Margolis, engaged by the International Labor Defense to represent all those arrested in the Wildwood disorder, said he would ask positive identificaton of each individual to prove a prima facie case.

MANY SPECTATORS

Fifth and Wylie avenues in the vicinity of Alderman Anderson's office and the Ross street entrance to the county jail were crowded with spectators, many of them

MRS. J. M. KEITH MILLER

AVIATRIX SUED FOR DIVORCE

LONDON, June 25.—(AP.)—An Exchange Telegraph agency dispatch from Melbourne said today that Mrs. J. M. Keith Miller, Australian flier, now in America, had been sued for divorce by Keith Miller, journalist.

Mrs. Miller received wide publicity last November when she was forced down in the Bahamas during a flight from Havana to Miami, on the first leg of her return trip to Pittsburgh, where she originally had taken off for an attempted one-stop flight to Cuba.

The aviatrix, given up for dead, arrived at Nassau in a fishing boat from Andros Island, where her plane had been blown out of its course.

Aviators at the time were puzzled by the fact that Mrs. Miller had been blown east by a westerly wind.

GRAND JURY CONTINUES INQUIRY

New Presentments Likely As Probe Turns to Graft Charges in City Purchases

Mayor Charles H. Kline and Bertram L. Succop, whom Kline "fired" as head of the Department of Supplies, were formally indicted today by the grand jury on charges of misdemeanor in office.

There were three indictments, One names both Kline and Succop. Another of three counts names Kline. The third, of one count, names Succop.

More presentments are to follow, it was indicated, as the jurors resumed their deliberations into the city's buying methods. Investigation to determine if money was paid to anyone unlawfully to obtain city contracts was reported to me the next step. Many additional witnesses are to be called.

GIVEN TO MOORE

The indictments were returned before Judge George V. Moore to whom the presentment against Kline and Succop was made late yesterday. The counts in the indictments follow the 26 charges outlined in the presentment.

Each count carries a maximum jail imprisonment of one year, upon conviction. In similar cases in Luzerne and Cambria counties, conviction was followed by ousting from office, jail sentence and fine.

Both Kline and Succop were to be ordered to furnish bail, pending arraignment, which probably will take place at the September term of court.

MUST GIVE BOND

Notice will be served by Chief of County Detectives George W. Murren, who will direct that Kline and Succop appear personally before District Attorney Andrew T. Park to furnish bond. They will have two or three days in which

Manville Reported Seeking Divorce

NEW YORK, June 25.—(AP.)—Newspapers today said that Thomas Franklin Manville, Jr., son of the asbestos manufacturer, would seek a Mexican or Reno divorce from his bride of one month, the former Avonne Taylor, showgirl. Friends said Manville regarded his wife as too "high hat."

The marriage of the couple on May 21 was the third for both.

Taxi Firm Attempts To Extend Service

The taxicab strike situation remained unchanged today. The Parmelee Transportation Company, operators of Green and Yellow cabs, whose 950 drivers are on strike, continuing efforts to break the strike, said they would have 148 cabs in operation in widely scattered sections of the city, with service in the downtown areas discontinuing at midnight.

County Aide Hangs Self From Tree

His body found hanging from a tree along the north Allegheny River boulevard, near Highland Park, today, his forty-seventh birthday, Harry G. Lewis, a division engineer of the County Department of Public Works, was said to have committed suicide while county detectives hunted for him at the request of his wife.

Mr. Lewis had been in ill health, his wife said. He disappeared yesterday while walking downtown. He and his wife had come to the city on a shopping tour, Mrs. Lewis told county detectives. Her husband wandered off in a crowd, she said.

County Detective Frank Malone, assigned to the search, was looking for Lewis when word of the finding of his body reached the County Detective Bureau.

Mr. Lewis leaves a wife and two young daughters.

Stocks' Rise Checked After Many New Highs

NEW YORK, June 25.—Threat of a political crisis in France interrupted the bull movement on the stock exchange at the beginning of the fourth hour today and prices of leading issues slid back $2 to $5 a share from their mid-day highs.

The selling was well absorbed, however, and there was no sign of a hurried unloading.

Steel common led the decline just as it had acted as bellwether on the early advance. Reaching new high ground at 102, the leader dropped back to near 99, but firmed up at that level.

The list bounded forward on the opening again today, duplicating yesterday's brilliant start. Reports of a Federal Reserve credit to carry Germany over its immediate emergency added to the overnight improvement in the international outlook. The French cabinet rumor did not reach the street until about 2 o'clock.

Further advances in copper and lead prices cheered the domestic situation and copper stocks boiled for a time. Anaconda's regular dividend helped this group also. General Motors was in huge demand during the forenoon, crossing 40 for the first time in many weeks. Radio, Case, du Pont and a dozen other big stocks provided a strong flank for Steel's forward movement. Trading was at a rapid pace, equalling yesterday's rate.

Burke and Harrison 'Suspend' Politics

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(AP.)—A moratorium on politics was effected today at the White House. Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, a democratic leader, and James Francis Burke, of Pittsburgh, general counsel for the Republican national committee, came out of the President's office arm in arm.

When it was suggested to them that the sight was analogous to the lion and the lamb lying down together they both wanted to be the lion and parted.

Queen Mary Bars 'Venus' From Ball

LONDON, June 25.—(INS.)—Venus will not rise naked from the sea in the person of Chita, the French dancer, at the approaching "famous beauties" ball in Buckingham Palace, it was announced today. It is suspected that Queen Mary caused the deletion of Venus from the program.

Old-Time Runaway Stirs East End

Lincoln avenue rang with the excitement of an old-fashioned horse runaway today at the peak of the noon hour traffic. Frank Cuadagnio, 47, 116 Winslow street, driver, is in the Pittsburgh Hospital with several lacerations about his head, and "Old Dobbin" is to be shot, as a result of the runaway, which ended in front of 1128 Lincoln avenue.

The horse ran until it fell and its leg was broken.

U. S. Sues Baird, Ex-Dry Chief Here, for $883

Suit was filed by the federal government today in United States District Court against Frederick C. Baird, former prohibition administrator for the Pittsburgh district, and the Federal and Deposit Company of Maryland, acting as surety for Baird, for the recovery of $883.50, alleged to have been paid out by Baird to agents in excess of salary and subsistence.

The statement of claim charges Baird paid John E. Williams, former agent and at present a private detective in the vicinity of East Pittsburgh and Turtle Creek, at the rate of $2,400 a year instead of his regularly allowed salary of $1,860. The total overpaid, according to the suit, amounted to $393. The statement accounts for other items paid out by Baird and now disallowed by the Comptroller of Currency of the United States Treasury as having gone for subsistence of other agents.

Motorist Rescues Three From Gas-Filled Pit

Two men and a boy were rescued from the bottom of a 50-foot gas-filled pit of an abandoned mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company in White Valley, near Delmont, today by a Pittsburgh man, J. Schmitt, 29, of 15 Federal street, North Side.

They were unconscious when brought to the surface, according to Export firemen who aided in the rescue.

The boy had fallen into the pit and the two men were trapped in going to his rescue. A rope was lowered to them, but they were unable to help themselves.

Reports from Delmont police said that one of the three rescued had been revived, but that the other two were still unconscious.

BRITISH PAPER'S REPLY HINTS AT CANCELLATION

Those Who Held Hoover Has 'Opened Door' to Avoiding Payments Much Disturbed

By ROBERT WELLES RITCHIE
Universal Service Special Cable

LONDON, June 25.—Overshadowing the question of the French answer to President Hoover's proposed moratorium, London's sole preoccupation today, officially and unofficially, was the blast against the Hoover policy published by William Randolph Hearst.

Although the foreign office maintained a discreet silence, members of Parliament and other government officials admitted that Mr. Hearst's pronouncements have injected a new and surprising element into the situation.

EUROPE STUNNED

It may be truthfully said that English publicists, who have gleefully declared that 'President Hoover has opened a door which never can be closed,' are stunned by Mr. Hearst's voicing his opinion that Americans will not be deceived by the Hoover moratorium but will construe it as the first step toward war debt cancellation.

An influential Liberal M. P. said:

"Mr. Hearst is likely to kick over the applecart just when everything seems all set for America's logical consideration of the war debts issue."

The News-Chronicle in reviewing Mr. Hearst's statement stated editorially:

"The first fatal flaw in Mr. Hearst's theory is his assumption that if President Hoover had let things be, nothing would have happened and Germany would have gone on paying as usual.

"It is quite certain that Germany would not.

DEFAULT PROBLEM

"Mr. Hearst simply evades the issue by pretending that default would not have followed speedily if the moratorium offer had not been made.

"Mr. Hearst's argument doubtless represents a certain naive and ill-informed section of American opinion which might, in certain circumstances, become powerful.

"To all whom it may concern—especially to France—that reflection is important."

The Daily Express, commenting editorially on Mr. Hearst's statement, requested earlier by that paper and printed belatedly after the same statement appeared in the Hearst newspapers on Tuesday, declared:

"Most people in Great Britain will deplore the stand that Mr. William Randolph Hearst has taken on the question of President Hoover's war debts moratorium.

"Mr. Hearst is a powerful and courageous publicist. He does not wince nor cry aloud when he is attacked. He gives and takes hard blows.

FIGHT FOR HOOVER

"It is a pity, therefore, that he has decided to range himself with the forces of reaction. It means that President Hoover is going to have a grim fight to carry his project through.

"But in spite of the fact that Mr. Hearst speaks for a great mass of American public opinion, he is going into the fight a certain loser.

"When President Hoover uttered that fatal word 'moratorium' he opened a door that can never be closed. It was nothing less than a reprieve for Germany based on the conviction that the executioner and the condemned would hang on the same rope if the war debts sentence was carried through.

"Mr. Hearst cannot reinvoke the sentence of death again were his voice 10 times as powerful as it is."

French Paper Answers Hearst Debt Attack

PARIS, June 25. (Universal.)—La Liberte in an editorial today referred to the statement by Mr. William Randolph Hearst published by the London Daily Express commenting:

"Among the first results obtained by Mr. Hoover was Mr. Hearst's just published violent article against France.

"He accuses our country of being the troublemaker of Europe. He reproaches us for being too rich; that is to say, too industrious and too thrifty.

"So, for Mr. Hearst as for all those like him in America, it is a piece of good luck to have an opportunity to weaken, ruin and humiliate France before the world.

"Afterward, she will be easier prey for Germany to become again powerful and rich, thanks to the double bankruptcy."

More Indictments Forecast

District Attorney Andrew T. Park, Special Prosecutor Earl F. Reed, Assistant District Attorneys George F. P. Langfitt and H. R. Phillips and a stenographer worked until 3 a. m. preparing the indictments.

Whether some of those who transacted business with the city will be indicted is not known, but reports have been current for several days that this is likely.

Controller James P. Kerr said some time ago that one of the city's hardest problems is to obtain value received in purchases. Short weight and lower grades of merchandise than bids and contracts called for have caused numerous disputes, he indicated.

It is believed that this angle has been gone into by the grand jury.

STUDY PAYROLLS

Rumors have been current for some time that persons on the city and county payrolls have profited by some of the transactions complained of, but to what extent is known only to investigators.

The Citizens' Committee and Allegheny County League of Women Voters have had men for some time checking up all available information, resulting in the employment of Attorney Reed, who is acting as a special prosecutor in the grand jury investigation.

Special Prosecutor Reed today said:

"District Attorney Park is deserving of the greatest commendation for his handling of the probe, and his courage in the performance of his duty. Further than that I have nothing to say."

About 60 witnesses have been called before the grand jury since the probe started. At the outset it was estimated that 75 to 100 would be summoned.

The grand jury is not expected to complete its work before next week.

TWENTY-TWO COUNTS

The grand jury, in its presentment, found 22 specific counts of alleged violation of law against Kline and Succop jointly, three counts against Kline individually, and one against Succop individually.

The specific count against Succop alone alleged that he awarded various contracts to A. Nathanson and Samuel Adler, knowing that the two represented the Marcus Company, a corporation whose merchandise had been found faulty, and which had been regarded as an irresponsible bidder to the extent that the city had refused to permit it to bid.

The three counts against the Mayor alone alleged purchases of two lots of rugs had been made from the Joseph Horne Company without advertising and competitive bidding, and three automobile trucks, one from the Lang Motor Company, one from the Stewart Motor Company, and one from the Sterling Motor Company.

Purchases in which the Mayor and former head of the Department of Supplies were named jointly included furniture for Mayview, trucks, coal, meat, canned goods, tires, rubber hose and seed.

Today Succop said:

"It would be foolish for me to make a statement at the present time, for the simple reason that it would weaken my case. I am the one who is being attacked, so I have nothing to say."

The Citizens' Committee, which was responsible for the independent audit and investigation which Kline and Succop will not make a move toward impeaching the Mayor or trying to remove him from office.

"We have not discussed the subject. We are not in politics and are content to let the entire matter take its regular course."

Nineteenth Ward G. O. P. Loyal To Kline

In the face of the presentment returned against Mayor Charles H. Kline by the grand jury, the Nineteenth Ward Republican organization last night indorsed Kline's administration and affirmed their "unfaltering faith in his honesty, integrity and splendid Republican leadership."

Samuel Reno, of the city board of assessors, is chairman of the organization. The meeting was held in the Mannerchor Hall, Southern avenue, Mt. Washington.

Stimson, Confident, Sails For Europe on Saturday

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(INS.)—Maintaining "one hundred per cent confidence" that President Hoover's debt moratorium proposal will become effective through the settlement of Franco-American differences, Secretary of State Stimson announced today he will sail for Europe on Saturday.

He will go to Naples, by way of Algeria, aboard the Italian steamer Conte Grandi, which is a rather leisurely way to reach Europe, and indicating that he doesn't consider the French impasse sufficiently serious to inject himself into the negotiations.

President Hoover's reply to the French counter-proposal to the proposed debt holiday was formulated last night and cabled to Paris.

While its contents were not made public, it was believed that the President's reply reiterated his official announcement that the United States will insist on postponement of collection of all reparations by the Allies for one year before it will agree to a suspension of war debts due this country for the same period.

JOHNSON RAPS DEBT PLAN

SAN FRANCISCO, June 25.—(AP.)—President Hoover's proposed moratorium on international debts is viewed by Senator Hiram Johnson, (Rep.), of California, as a measure that would lead to cancellation and designed to protect bankers' private loans to Germany. He said:

"Ostensibly, the moratorium is to aid Germany, but the beneficiaries who profit most will be the American financiers with more than a billion dollars (in investments in Germany) at stake.

"Anyone with the slightest knowledge of the propaganda of the last year for the cancellation of foreign debts, knows this moratorium means cancellation. Let Congress meet and turn on the light."

Chile Asks Mexico To Economic Parley

MEXICO CITY, June 25.—(AP.)—An invitation to participate in a Pan-American conference to study disarmament, customs agreements and other important subjects was delivered to Foreign Minister Genaro Estrada last night by the Chilean ambassador, Pedhe Lettelier. BITTEN, SUES DOG'S OWNERS

Seeking $10,000 damages for injuries through an attack by a German police dog, Mrs. Cecelia Matthews, 21, of 1304 Liverpool street, North Side, filed a suit in Common Pleas Court against Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Covert, of Baldwin township. Her husband, John Matthews, joined in the action.

The suit alleged the dog, owned by the Coverts, attacked Mrs. Matthews May 29 in front of 3008 Hormening road, Baldwin Township, biting her twice in the back and clawing her neck, stomach and leg.

The dog had previously bitten others and was unlicensed and loose, according to the suit, which averred:

Attorney Samuel Goldstock filed the suit.

hagen without a stop in 28 hours and their failure to turn up hours after the time for the scheduled arrival caused grave fears to be felt for their safety.

Post and Gatty Reach Moscow From Berlin

MOSCOW, June 25.—(INS.)—Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, American aerial circumnavigators, brought their monoplane Winnie Mae down on the landing field here today at 11:30 a. m. (Pittsburgh time), completing the third leg of their projected round-the-world flight.

They had taken nine hours and five minutes for their flight from Templehof Field, Berlin, and averaged 100 miles an hour, in contrast to the record-breaking clip of 150 miles an hour they averaged on the journey across the Atlantic from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, to England yesterday.

The American fliers' original itinerary called for the next leg of the flight—a jump of 2,600 miles over Siberia to Irkutsk—to get under way after only a few hours' rest. They planned to remain overnight at Irkutsk before proceeding to Kharborovsk.

They expressed confidence that they will circle the world within the 10-day limit.

The present record for speed in achieving that journey is 20 days and four hours, established by Dr. Hugo Eckener in the dirigible, Graf Zeppelin, in 1929.

British Fliers Make Fast Warsaw Trip

CROYDON, England, June 25.—(AP.)—The British fliers, Neville Stack and J. R. Chaplin, landed here last night from Warsaw, having completed the round trip from England in approximately 15½ hours.

They averaged 130 miles an hour.

Writ Against Ban On Priests Refused

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, June 25.—(AP.)—Judge Manuel Barlett last night rejected a petition filed by Catholic priests for permanent injunction against the recently enacted law limiting to 11 the number of priests allowed to officiate in the state of Vera Cruz.

The decision was rendered on the grounds there had been no attempt to eject the excess number of priests from their churches, presumably leaving the way open for filing of new petitions when such steps have been taken.

Meaning of Equality Defined by Coolidge

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., June 25.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

The United States was founded on the theory that all men are created equal. When we examine that principle we shall avoid much confusion if we first define our terms. We have no difficulty about the meaning of equality but what we mean by men is not so plain.

Mr. Coolidge

Man has certain physical characteristics of a material nature which have very much in common with the animal kingdom. It is only in the reason, in the spiritual nature, in the power to weigh evidence, to know the truth, that we find the real, essential and distinctive attributes of man. That gives him a quality different from all the other creatures in the universe.

The theory is that all men have the same kind of power to know some truth. In that they are all equal. They differ in degree. Some know much truth, some only a little. They are all equal in kind yet they will different rewards. But as men we are equal and entitled to equal rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness and equal votes in determining our own government.

STARR LETTERS HELD GENUINE BY SISTER

Slain Girl's Family Grilled Hours by Police; Tombs Prisoner Gives New Clues

International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 25.—After hours of grueling questioning Stanley Faithfull, his wife and stepdaughter, Elizabeth Tucker Faithfull, emerged from Mineola police headquarters today, and the mysterious death of Starr Faithfull still baffled authorities.

The stepfather still insisted the handwriting in at least two of the "suicide" letters received by Dr. G. Jameson Carr, ship's surgeon, and turned over to the authorities was not that of Starr's, but the talkative Tucker believes her sister wrote them.

PRISONER'S STORY REVEALED

Inspector Harold R. King, who had charge of the interrogation, announced that the members of the Faithfull family were questioned as to Starr's companions during her last few days alive and said:

"I don't believe they knew who was with her."

Other sources revealed that Harry Goldstein, a prisoner in the Tombs, has given Nassau County authorities much more important information of the mystery than has been made public.

TELLS OF SEEING MEN

At first Goldstein was supposed to have said he saw Starr and an elderly man together in Manhattan the Friday afternoon of her dissappearance. Now it has developed that his actual story was that he saw the girl and two younger men at Fifth avenue and Eleventh street that afternoon and on the following Sunday he saw the same two men at Long Beach.

They were alone at that time and Goldstein claims he knew them because previously he had driven them about Europe with Starr.

PARDON READY FOR PRISON BREAKER

Virginia Governor to Free Man Who Escaped From Penitentiary Camp in 1919

RICHMOND, Va., June 25.—(AP.)—Gov. Pollard today said he will pardon Jesse Straudeman, who voluntarily returned to the Virginia Penitentiary Monday after living the life of a good citizen in Youngstown, O., since he escaped from a prison camp in 1919.

Straudeman was sentenced as a youth to serve a year in the penitentiary following an alleged theft of clothing from a box car.

At the time, his home was in Connellsville, Pa. After he went to Youngstown he married a Connellsville girl.

Gov. Pollard said the pardon is assured, but the technicality of making it effective is a matter that must await the return of Maj. Rice M. Youell, prison superintendent, who today was out of the city.

His announcement today followed a complete investigation into the Straudeman case through the State Department of Public Welfare, and the recommendation by Welfare Commissioner Frank Bane that it was "not necessary to further confine this man either for the protection of the public or the benefit of the individual."

Bail was set at $5,000 each for all of the prisoners except Myerscough, who was held under $10,000 bond. None was able to raise bond.

Two men and a woman, alleged to have stoned miners on their way to work in the Terminal mine, at Castle Shannon, this morning, were lodged in the county jail on charges of trespassing. Informations were sworn to by coal company officials before Justice of the Peace J. M. Smith, of Beadling. Those arrested are John Poni, Anthony Kapays and Mary Bodack, all of Beadling.

Heavily guarded by special details of state police and extra forces of deputy sheriffs, Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation mines continued operation under agreement with the United Mine Workers of America today, officials reporting 85 per cent of the 2,400 miners had returned to work. No disorders were reported and no arrests made.

PICKETS SCOFF

Picket observers for the National Miners' Union, left-wing opponent of the United Mine Workers, scoffed at the estimates of company officials, who they maintained, were trying to stampede the men back to work with false statements. Yesterday's company estimate of a 50 per cent return of the miners was vigorously denied by insurgent leaders, who insisted that "only an insignificant handful" had gone back to work.

State police and deputy sheriffs were on the alert today for a march of 1,500 Ohio miners on the Terminal mines, but it failed to materialize.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot, informed of the possibility of the demonstration, sent instructions to state police telling them not to interfere with the visitors so long as they were orderly.

DREISER IN FIELD

Theodore Dreiser, novelist and sociologist, made a personal tour of the strike area in the immediate vicinity of Pittsburgh this morning with officials of the National Miners' Union. Dreiser, who announced yesterday a desire to obtain first-hand information of strike conditions, interviewed a score or more members of the National Miners' Union who visited him at the Seventh Avenue Hotel yesterday. He inquired into their means of livelihood and obtaining food and clothing.

"We are hungry, and our clothes are in rags."

Dreiser said he was not taking sides in the controversy.

Pete Zegarek, striking miner, who was killed in the battle at Wildwood Monday, was buried yesterday in Woodlawn Serbian Cemetery, Aliquippa. Services were held at the M. G. Prosser chapel.

KING REQUESTS HER TO LEAVE RUMANIA

Red-Haired Beauty Reported Threatened With Death If She Stays in Country

International News Service.

BERLIN, June 25.—Mme. Lupescu, the red-haired beauty for whom King Carol once gave up his rights to succeed to the throne of his father, attempted suicide in Bucharest today, according to a rumor published here by the Lokal Anzieger. Mme. Lupescu was said to have taken an overdose of a sleeping potion.

Carol himself was said to have asked her to leave the country, and chagrin over the loss of her royal admirer was said to have been the cause of her attempted suicide.

Immediately preceding the incident, some of Mme. Lupescu's many enemies in Bucharest were said to have launched upon a campaign of terrorization with the avowed object of enforcing her speedy departure from Bucharest.

To excite fear in the heart of the red-haired charmer, the rumor-mongers were said to have informed Mme. Lupescu that the plotters planned a fate for her and King Carol similar to that which befell King Alexander and Queen Draga, of Serbia, in 1903. The marriage of Alexander and Draga Masin, widow of a Czech engineer, was keenly resented and radicals murdered both in their beds.

Similar turmoil has resulted here as a result of the presence of Mme. Lupescu since Carol's dramatic return to claim the throne from his son, the boy king, Michael, and his failure to effect a reconciliation with his wife, Princess Helen.

Weather Conditions.

The skies are clear over much the greater portion of the country this morning, and the rainfall was limited to showers in the lower Ohio Valley states and along the South Atlantic coast. Showers occurred also north of the Great Lakes as a result of the low pressure near Hudson Bay. High pressure occupies the eastern states, with its center over Vermont, highest barometer reported, 30.30 inches, at Northfield. There are no centers of disturbances in the western states, but there is a flat barometric pressure condition over most of the interior, which is favorable to the development of local showers. Temperatures continued high over the plains states yesterday and it is warm over most of the country this morning.

Vare, Pinchot Conference Stirs Political Leaders

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—(AP.)—Political observers here professed to foresee some kind of a political move as a result of the unexpected meeting in Harrisburg yesterday of Gov. Pinchot and William S. Vare and Thomas W. Cunningham, of the Philadelphia Republican Organization.

The mere fact that Vare visited and talked with the Governor, with whom he has been at odds, caused much speculation as to what is boiling in the political pot.

After the conference, which lasted nearly an hour in the Governor's office, Mr. Pinchot said that his visitors had urged him to sign two Philadelphia bills passed by the legislature. One of the bills would change the present method of selecting city councilmen.

Arno Considers Dropping Vanderbilt Suit

RENO, Nev., June 25.—(INS.)—Peter Arno, New York satirical artist, today indicated he would drop his contemplated slander suit against Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., and his attorney, Samuel Platt, unless he were named co-respondent in Vanderbilt's divorce proceedings against his pretty blue-eyed wife, Mary Weir Logan Vanderbilt.

The possibility of the suit became known following sensational allegations made against the artist by the scion of the multi-millionaire Vanderbilt family after the asserted "unloaded gun" episode in which Vanderbilt, through his attorney, said that he had followed Arno down the street with a revolver which he later found was empty.

Meanwhile the hearing of Arno's divorce suit and the cross complaint of his wife, Lois Long, noted writer, in which both allege cruelty, was set for Monday morning behind closed doors. Indications were that Mrs. Arno would receive the decree.

HEAT BLISTERS MIDDLE WEST

Still smarting from last week's blister, the Midwest sweltered anew under temperatures that neared all-time records.

Iowa was hardest hit. The thermometer burned up at 105 in Waterloo yesterday, within three degrees of the state maximum for June. Three men and a baby boy died from the heat. Crops were scorched by a week of hot winds and were in a critical condition.

Michigan, Ohio and Indiana were moderately cool but Illinois roasted. In Chicago, it wasn't the heat, but the humidity, and one death was chalked up.

JUDICIARY POLL AID PROPOSAL BEFORE BAR

Dalzell Committee Urges State Group Supply Data On Candidates for Bench

BEDFORD SPRINGS, Pa., June 25. — (AP.) — Plans whereby the Pennsylvania Bar Association would attempt to improve the quality of the judiciary by disseminating information regarding the fitness of candidates for the appellate courts was up for discussion before the association's thirty-seventh annual convention here today.

A definite proposal to furnish such information to the Governor and the public was recommended by a special committee headed by William S. Dalzell, Pittsburgh, in its annual report. Sentiment concerning the plan is said to be divided.

ELECTION PLAN

Under the committee's plan, a committee of 15 members of the association would be appointed by the association president. This group, to be known as the "judiciary committee," would gather information concerning potential candidates for the Supreme and Superior courts and furnish it to the Governor in the event of an impending appointment, and to the public in case of an election.

Charles A. Boston of New York, president of the American Bar Association, addressed the convention last night. He told the attorneys that a return to normalcy did not lie through the stock ticker, but through normal habit and its modification which changing conditions force upon the individual man.

OPPOSITION TO LAW

Discussing the law, Boston said many of the advocates of obedience fail to distinguish between duty and respect. He said:

"I suppose we in the United States have heard more of duty, of unquestionable obedience to law than ever at any time in our history except when the fugitive slave law was a bone of contention. Yet I think it would profit us as a means of better orientation if we should carefully study the origins of our bill of rights, and discover how many of their tenets arose from persistent opposition to existing law, in the interest of greater individual freedom."

JUDGE WITNESS AGAINST OHIO PROSECUTOR

Jenkins Declares Thomas Accompanied Power Firm Lawyer Seeking Jury List

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 25.—(AP.) — Common Pleas Judge David D. Jenkins testified yesterday as a state witness in Prosecutor Ray L. Thomas' trial on a charge of blackmailing former Traction Commissioner Harry Engle.

Judge Jenkins related that "two, three or four years ago" Thomas attended a meeting of the Common Pleas judges accompanied by an attorney for the Pennsylvania-Ohio Power and Light Company, and that the attorney asked the judges to order the jury commissioners to furnish him a list of the names of prospective jurors placed in the jury wheel.

LAW HELD ANSWER

Judge Jenkins said the request was refused. Defense attorneys objected on the ground that the statutes are the best answer to the question, and Judge Jenkins said:

"That was the reason we refused."

Thomas' lawyers asked the court to order Judge Jenkins' answer stricken out, but were overruled.

Judge Jenkins also said Thomas at one time misrepresented the court's position, when the Court of Appeals released on a writ of habeas corpus a man Jenkins had sentenced to jail for contempt in a damage suit involving a subsidiary for the P.-O. Judge Jenkins said:

"I told Thomas he was in contempt of court and should be sent to jail."

Judge Jenkins related that when it appeared that the local judges intended to ask a state investigation of the Engle matter, Thomas appeared before him with Judge Jenkin's brother-in-law, Arthur H. Williams, and told him Engle's testimony would "involve 18 or 20 prominent citizens" including Williams, if any one other than Thomas conducted the investigation.

Williams at one time was city finance director. Engle has testified Williams got $350 from him for a trip to Canada to get a signature on a utility contract.

Text of Findings in City Buying Quiz

The complete text of the grand jury's presentment recommending the indictment of Mayor Charles H. Kline and Bertram L. Succop, former director of the Department of Supplies, follows:

"The grand inquest of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania now inquiring in and for the body of the County of Allegheny upon their oaths and solemn affirmations, do respectfully present and report as follows:

"That under the instructions of your honorable court, given to us on June 15, 1931 with reference to various violations of the law that were alleged to have existed in the Department of Supplies of the City of Pittsburgh, Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, in the awarding of public contracts for supplies and merchandise necessary for use in said city in the carrying on of its municipal functions, we began our investigation on the date above mentioned and since said date have continuously been engaged in the investigation of the matters above referred to, with the exception of Monday, June 22, 1931, when we were engaged in the routine business of the court.

"During the period above referred to we have examined approximately 65 witnesses who have testified concerning the manner in which said Department of Supplies was conducted.

VIOLATIONS FOUND

"We find that many and varied irregularities and violations of the law have existed in the above matters. Under the charge directed to us by your honorable court at the time the above matters were referred to us, the court called our attention to the law which requires all municipal contracts to be let by the Mayor and the head of the proper department, and that the law requires that all contracts be let to the lowest responsible bidder, and that contracts amounting to $500 and over be advertised.

"We have found from evidence presented to us that in a great many instances goods have been purchased by the Department of Supplies of the City of Pittsburgh without complying with the law, that in some cases where purchases amounted to sums greatly in excess of $500 it was so arranged that a division was made so as to have the appearance of several purchases under the sum of $500 in order to defeat the clear intention of the law to have such purchases advertised.

"We have found a great many cases of the letting of contracts to other than the lowest responsible bidder, and in some instances purchases have been made without any ordinance authorizing the purchase having been passed as required by law. We have also found contracts let upon bids which, upon their face, showed an intention to deceive. We also found instances in which the head of the department awarded contracts to bidders known to be bidding under fictitious names.

MAYOR ACCUSED

"From the evidence presented to us we find:

"1. That Charles H. Kline, Mayor of the City of Pittsburgh, and Bertram L. Succop, then director of the Department of Supplies of the City of Pittsburgh, let a contract on June 18, 1929, to the Puffinburg Company for furniture and furnishings for use at the City Home and Hospital at Mayview, in violation of law, said Puffinburg Company not being the lowest responsible bidder.

"2. That the said Charles H. Kline and Bertram L. Succop let violation of law, let a contract on June 18, 1929, to Joseph Horne & Co. for furnishing at the City Home at Mayview, said Joseph Horne & Co. not being the lowest responsible bidder.

"3. That the said Charles H. Kline and Bertram L. Succop let a contract, in violation of law, on or about February 1, 1929, for certain chairs for use at the City Home at Mayview to Puffinburg Company, said company not being the lowest responsible bidder.

TRUCK PURCHASES

"4. That said Charles H. Kline and Bertram L. Succop, in violation of law, authorized the purchase of three trucks from one Henry Braun on or about the 17th day of July, 1929, for the sum of $6,700, without first having advertised for bids for the same or securing competitive bids thereon, and that prior to the delivery of the said trucks to the City of Pittsburgh the sum of $5,000 was advanced to the said Henry Braun.

"5. That the said Charles H. Kline and said Bertram L. Succop, on or about December 29, 1927, in violation of law, awarded a contract for coal for use at the Brilliant Pumping Station of the city of Pittsburgh to the Hillman Coal and Coke Company, said company not being the lowest responsible bidder.

"6. That said Charles H. Kline on or about January 1st, 1931, in violation of law, without advertising and without competitive bids and without any authority to do so, purchased a rug from Joseph Horne Company, for and on behalf of the city of Pittsburgh, for the sum of $1,350.

RUGS INVOLVED

"8. That the said Charles H. "9. That on or about December 21, 1928, said Charles H. Kline and Bertram L. Succop awarded a contract to A. L. Brahm Company for supplying meat, said contract being, on its face, deceptive and misleading and which was prepared with the apparent intention of evading the law requiring contracts to be let to the lowest responsible bidder, and said Charles H. Kline and Bertram L. Succop awarded contracts to said Brahm company upon similar bids for the months of February, 1929, to December, 1930, both inclusive, said bids being taken on a proposal prepared contrary to the provisions of the ordinance of the City of Pittsburgh regulating the purchase of supplies to the lowest responsible bidder, being arrived at by an incorrect system of tabulating the bids so that the tabulations so prepared showed a bid to be the lowest bidder who was, in truth and in fact, under a correct system of tabulating said bids, not the lowest responsible bidder, and which proposal and system of tabulating discouraged and prevented open and competitive bidding.

CANNED GOODS

"10. That said Bertram L. Succop, on or about August 19, 1930, purchased from L. H. Parke Company, for the City of Pittsburgh, in violation of law, canned goods at a price of $11,811.50, without advertising for bids or without competitive bidding for the same, and without any written contract therefor, and separated said purchases into 29 separate orders, each less than $500, for the purpose of evading the provisions of the statute requiring purchases of $500 and upwards to be advertised; and said Charles H. Kline knowingly permitted said purchases to be made in violation of law.

"11. That said Bertram L. Succop, on or about September 24, 1929, in violation of law, awarded a contract to L. H. Parke Company for canned goods for 1929 and 1930 when said L. H. Parke Company was not the lowest responsible bidder therefor, and that said Charles H. Kline knowingly and in violation of law permitted said contract to be so awarded.

"12. That on or about September 24, 1930, said Bertram L. Succop, in violation of law, awarded a contract to the said L. H. Parke Company for certain merchandise in excess of the sum of five hundred dollars, to wit, in the amount of $3,628.75, without first having advertised for bids and without competitive bidding thereon, contrary to law, and said Charles H. Kline knowingly, and in violation of law, permitted said contract to be so awarded.

KNOWINGLY VIOLATED

"13. That said Charles H. Kline and said Bertram L. Succop, in awarding contracts for automobile tires for the years 1930 and 1931, failed and neglected to award said contracts to the lowest responsible bidder in accordance with the requirements of law, and failed to tabulate said bids in such manner as to show the actual prices of the various bidders; that said Succop awarded a contract on or about March 7, 1930, to Glick Auto Supply Company for automobile tires, said Glick Automobile Supply Company not being the lowest responsible bidder; and the said Charles H. Kline knowingly, and in violation of law, permitted the same to be done.

"14. That on or about March 7, 1930, Bertram L. Succop awarded contracts for the supplying of automobile tires to the City of Pittsburgh to Glick Auto Supply Company, Penn Tire Company and Popular Supply Shop, said bidders not being the lowest responsible bidders, said contracts being awarded in violation of law, and said Charles H. Kline knowingly permitted same to be done.

"15. That said Bertram L. Succop, on or about September 4, 1930, purchased a certain Packard automobile, in violation of law, from the Packard Automobile Company, for the City of Pittsburgh, for the sum of $2,485, without previously advertising and without competitive bids for the same and without any legal authority for the said purchase, also without any written contract therefor; and the said Charles H. Kline knowingly and in violation of law permitted same to be done.

"16. That the said Charles H. Kline and the said Bertram L. Succop, in violation of law, on or about May 2, 1930, awarded a contract to the Stewart Motor Truck Company for two 2½-ton trucks, said Stewart Motor Truck Company not being the lowest responsible bidder, the price of said trucks being $7,500.00.

"17. That the said Charles H. Kline and the said Bertram L. Succop, in violation of law, on or about May 2, 1930, awarded a contract for one 2½-ton truck for the sum of $4,475.00, from Mueller Brothers, they not being the lowest responsible bidder.

"18. That the said Charles H. Kline and said Bertram L. Succop, on or about May 2nd, 1930, awarded a contract to Brockway Motor Truck Corporation for three 3½-ton trucks for the sum of $16,969.50, said Brockway Motor Truck Corporation not being the lowest responsible bidder, in violation of law.

"19. That the said Charles H. Kline and said Bertram L. Succop, in violation of law, on or about May 2nd, 1930, awarded a contract on behalf of the City of Pittsburgh for eight 1½-ton trucks to the Rea Seagert Company for the sum of $8,800, said Rea Seagert Company not being the lowest responsible bidder.

"20. That the said Charles H. Kline and said Bertram L. Succop, in violation of law, on or about May 2nd, 1930, awarded a contract to C. E. Moody Motor Company, on behalf of the City of Pittsburgh, for the purchase of four Ford Coupes, and a contract for two Ford Coupes to Manor Garage, and two Ford Coupes to Barnes Motor Company, Inc., the price of each of said coupes being $531.16, none of said companies being the lowest responsible bidder.

"21. That the said Charles H. Kline, in violation of law, on or about May 1st, 1930, and said Bertram L. Succop, awarded a contract to Hewitt Gutta Percha Rubber Manufacturing Company for the purchase of 12,250 feet of hose in the amount of $9,187.50, on behalf of the City of Pittsburgh, said Hewitt Gutta Percha Rubber Manufacturing Company not being the lowest responsible bidder.

"22. That on or about the first day of May, 1930, the said Charles H. Kline and Bertram L. Succop, well knowing that the name of A. Nathanson was a fictitious name, used by the said Marcus Company for the purpose of obtaining contracts from the City of Pittsburgh, and well knowing that Samuel Adler was an agent for the said Marcus Company, in violation of law.

Ford Ships Adopt Standard Rates

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(AP.)—The Ford Motor Company has advised the Shipping Board its vessels in the future would be operated on freight schedules of the Atlantic Continental Freight Conference.

The action followed charges by J. Caldwell Jenkins, former vice president of the Merchant Fleet Corporation, that the Ford Company was operating chartered foreign vessels in competition with American ships, and cutting rates on general cargo accepted to fill up the boats.

Miss Arden's representative is here this week to show you how to apply it in the most becoming way for your particular complexion. Consult her in the Cabana, in the Beach Shop, Second Floor.

We Bow . . .

Unaccustomed as we are to public boasting, we are moved to point with pride to the overwhelming success of our Summer Shirt Sale as another example of the unqualified public approval of Horne merchandising standards.

Originally planned as a four-day selling, the response was so gratifying that certain numbers were cleaned out yesterday almost before the selling had gotten well under way. If any were disappointed, for that we are sorry. We thought we had provided amply for any possible demand.

An additional quantity of shirts from the maker's reserve stocks is being hurried here and will be ready for selection tomorrow. These will constitute, principally, white shirts —the most popular for summer, in sizes 13½ to 17.

In like manner, the approval of HORNE QUALITY, at the right prices, is being demonstrated every day throughout the store. We appreciate this vote of confidence at a time when "price" is being seized upon by all and sundry as the hue and cry of the day.

Again we pledge: Horne's high quality standards will be maintained and Horne prices will always be the lowest that the market permits.

NEW YORK, June 25.—(AP)—Capt. Frank Hawks, speed flier, predicts future airplanes traveling 200 miles an hour, connecting New York and San Francisco in overnight service, in his book "Speed," published tomorrow.

He says there is no reason why regular mail service cannot be established between the East and West coasts in order that mail leaving New York at the close of the business day may be in California as the new day starts.

Now Brush Away Ugly Yellow and Stain

WHITEN TEETH

3 Shades in 3 Days This Way

A startling new discovery now makes it easily possible for anyone to have gleaming white teeth and gums that look firm and healthy—free from dread disease.

IT'S A REVOLUTIONARY TECHNIQUE THAT ACTUALLY REMOVES YELLOW AND STAIN, CLEANS TEETH RIGHT DOWN TO THE BEAUTIFUL, NAKED WHITE ENAMEL WITHOUT INJURY. IT STRENGTHENS GUMS.

You can brush teeth and gums the ordinary way a dozen times a day... still teeth will discolor and decay, gums will break down... so long as you neglect the millions of germs that swarm into the mouth with every breath and cause most tooth and gum troubles. Ordinary toothpastes are helpless against them.

This remarkable new technique—called the Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique—destroys the millions of germs that spread destruction. As a result, teeth soon look whiter and feel cleaner than ever before.

The very moment Kolynos enters the mouth it multiplies 25 times and becomes a refreshing FOAM that permits the use of a dry brush which makes Kolynos 10 times more effective.

This FOAM gets into every pit, fissure and crevice. Cleans out fermenting food particles. Kills dangerous germs, 190 million in the first 15 seconds. Stimulates gums. Gently erases tartar. Purifies the mouth. And cleans teeth as they should be cleaned—to gleaming, dazzling whiteness.

Improvement Overnight

Start using the Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique—a half-inch of Kolynos on a dry brush. After the first brushing you'll note a difference. Overnight the improvement will be so marked you'll never again go back to old-fashioned, incompetent methods of brushing teeth and gums. In 3 days teeth will look 3 shades whiter! Buy yourself a large tube of Kolynos.

Mechanism is kept in exact relationship to temperature control and the defrosting switch... insulation cannot shift... the door frame cannot bend and permit door-sag. Through all extremes of cold, heat, dryness and humidity, unchanging steel holds the parts of a Majestic in that perfect working alignment given them at the factory.

Sides, front, top, back and bottom are each of heavy sheet steel for years of service. Majestic is not just a good machine... it is a quality product designed around the 30 essential features that 10,000 personally-interviewed housewives told us should be included.

Let a Majestic dealer go over these features with you and explain the liberal monthly payment plan.

DONNAN ESTATE WINS U. S. SUIT

Judgment of $47,787 was entered against the federal government today by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson in the suit of the executors of the John W. Donnan estate to recover inheritance tax collections.

Donnan, a banker, died in Washington, Pa., December 23, 1928, leaving an estate valued by the government at $4,400,000, of which $2,165,000 was a trust fund created by Donnan for his four children, John H. Donnan, Sidney B. Donnan, Alvin E. Donnan and Mrs. Dorothy E. Whitworth.

The government contended the trust fund was created in contemplation of death and collected $47,787 as its portion of the estate as inheritance taxes.

The executors contended the trust fund was an ordinary gift, Judge Gibson concurring in this belief. Whether the state inheritance tax collection, which amounted to approximately $180,000, will be involved, has not been indicated.

WOMAN SHOT, DROWNED

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 25.—(AP.)—The body of Mrs. Elizabeth Potz, 42, was found today in the Conemaugh River, a short time after Joseph Gelgonia, 29, of Seward, near here, surrendered to a justice of the peace and told him he had shot the woman and held her head under water until she drowned.

Gelgonia was brought to Johnstown from Seward. Police said he told them he shot Mrs. Potz, with whom he had been living, last night during an argument as they were walking together. The bullet struck her in the jaw and he dragged her to the river bank and drowned her, he said.

Gelgonia went to the home of his parents and said nothing of his act. He returned to the river this morning and then went to the justice of the peace and surrendered.

School Bible Use Approved in N. Y.

NEW YORK, June 25.—(AP.)—The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court approved the use of Bibles in public schools of this city.

The decision was made in an action brought by Joseph Lewis, as president of the Freethinkers of America, Inc., to prevent the Board of Education from continuing use of the Bible on the ground that state and religion are separate in this country.

Uncle Gagged, Girl Escapes Kidnapers

BOURNEDALE, Mass., June 25.—(AP.)—Miss Ellen Edstrom, 17, whose uncle, Charles Johnson, told police she had been kidnaped early today from his home by men who left him bound and gagged, returned later.

She told police a man had thrown a blanket over her head and attempted to strangle her, but that she succeeded in escaping to the home of Louis Norris, a neighbor.

Britain Keeps Ban On U. S. Orchestras

LONDON, June 25.—(AP.)—Margaret Bondfield, minister of labor, informed the House of Commons today that no permits have been issued since January allowing foreign dance bands to enter Great Britain.

A member had asked whether she would not restrict the entry of American and French bands since both the United States and France "have forbidden the entry of British bands."

13 Schools Picnic At West View Park

Thirteen public school picnics are being held today at West View Park. The schools are: Halls Grove, John Morrow, East Street, Spring Hill, City View, Mary J. Cowley, Perry High, Horace Mann, Columbus, Chatham, Longfellow, Valley and Irwin Avenue Trade School. Tomorrow will be Chartiers Community Day at West View.

Wexford Boy Dies After Auto Crash

A fractured vertebrae caused the death of Frank W. Saergel, 6, of Wexford, in Bellevue Suburban Hospital today, according to a coroner's report.

The child was injured when the auto of W. C. Wieskman, in which the boy was riding, and another machine collided at Ingomar at 9 a. m., according to the report. The child died an hour later.

Driver of Rum Car Flees Dry Agents

A motorist who was stopped early today by prohibition agents fled and abandoned his automobile containing a quantity of moonshine at Gibbons and Stevenson streets, according to a report at prohibition headquarters. The car and the 10 gallons of moonshine found in it were confiscated.

Auto Theft Names Amusing to Police

A butcher whose name happens to be Frank Hatchet, early today notified police that his automobile was stolen during the night from his home at 314 Carver street, East End. The unusual name combination of butcher, Hatchet and Carver brought much comment from police as the description of the missing machine was broadcast.

MINE DEPUTIES ALLOWED BAIL

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 25.—The six deputies and two coal and iron policemen held in connection with the death of Mike Pilipovich and the shooting of six others in the Arnold City mine riot, were released on $5,000 bail each today. District Attorney J. B. Adams instructed them to refrain from police duties until the investigation is completed.

Coroner S. A. Baltz, with Sheriff Thomas Aubrey, is co-operating with District Attorney Adams in a three-phase probe, has not yet set a date for an inquest, but it will probably come some time next week, it was believed.

State police patroled the strike region of Fayette County today. No disorder was reported and no arrests were made.

Bottles, Bricks Shower Agents In Dry Raid

BALTIMORE, June 25.—(AP.)—Bottles and bricks were hurled yesterday at four prohibition agents making a raid in East Eager. The four tires of their automobile were slashed. The agents escaped in the car, taking with them one prisoner.

STORE HELD UP FOURTH TIME

A Negro bandit robbed William Tweed, 21, manager of a P. H. Butler store at 2114 Wylie avenue, of $15 today and escaped afoot. This was the second time within two months and the fourth time in a year this store has been robbed.

Standing aside while Tweed waited upon two other customers, Tweed said, the Negro forced him into a rear room at the point of a revolver and escaped with the money which he obtained from a cash register. A companion of the robber stood in front of the store during the robbery.

TELL IT TO SALLY

Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day

By SALLY MARTIN

Are Most Wives of Today Helpless Creatures?

Do they consider that marriage is a Soft Snap, in which a Smart Girl manages to loaf most of the time, while the Big Boy carries the heavy burdens?

A gentleman wrote about having to mind the baby, gather up the laundry, and do other little Odd Jobs, while the Little Woman snuggles peacefully in the feathers.

Did it start a war? You'd be surprised!

But here comes C. Christensen, who vows it's all true. For he did it himself!

"LISTEN SALLY,—(sez he)

"I'm a pretty husky and healthy sort of fellow. Spent about five years as a seaman on German merchant ships . . . traveled the seven seas in the company of all kinds of roughnecks, and put in four years in the German navy . . . joined the U. S. Army and stayed in it for seven and a half years, four of which I served in the jungles of Panama. So you see I'm no 'softy' . . .

WORKED HARD

"But—well—I fell for a cute little trick one day. And didn't wake up till I was married. And what a rude awakening that was! My soldier's pay wasn't anything to write home about, but I was given an officer's bungalow, and had a lot of other privileges, and plenty of time in which to make extra money so I wouldn't have changed places with a civilian earning $180 a month.

"But besides my duties as a soldier, acting mess sergeant and chief cook, my first job when I got home was to calm and quiet a crying wife and a baby. Baby cried because she didn't feel good . . . and mama cried because baby cried. After I got the two of them back to normal, I prepared the meal, took the little one so wifey could eat in peace, put baby to sleep, and helped to straighten up the house—got in coal for three stoves, went shopping, did the heavy wash that wifey couldn't handle, hung it on the line, polished the stoves, cleaned the bathtub . . . and then settled down to press uniforms for the boys, for which I charged them 50 cents apiece. By that time the little wife would have retired to get her well-earned sleep. Usually I would follow her around midnight, if not later. Then baby would decide to make a racket that would wake the whole post. Naturally, it was my duty as a loving and devoted husband to parade up and down with the little loud speaker till she decided that enough was enough. And every other morning my duty called me into the army kitchen at 3 a. m.

"That's how a big, husky, healthy roustabout let a tiny 'home-girl' do as she pleased and make a sucker of him!

"Well, we parted three years ago, she claiming that we were 'mismated,' and insisting that the best thing I could do would be to go back to Germany where I came from. But I know that, if I'd had nerve enough in those first days to say 'no' and mean 'no,' I'd still have the most wonderful little girl in the world for a wife.

"My first jolt came when the war stopped my career as a seaman. The second was when I let a little wisp of a girl get my goat. And they about knocked me flat. But this time no man, woman or beast is going to stop me. I've learned my lesson, and know that I've nobody but myself to blame for what happened to me. Just as this other guy is to blame. And I'll say he'd better get next to himself pronto!

"Christian L. Christensen."

All of which looks as if the big boys were winning the day. But just listen, while Martie has her say.

"Men make me sick!" says Martie. "They're always beefing about what a bother the wife is —But what sort of a wife do they pick?"

"Do they choose the reliable, unselfish, efficient girls, who can be depended upon to be good partners? I'll say they don't! They fall for some fluffy, helpless baby doll . . . one who just can't look out for herself—to hear her tell it . . . one who will look up adoringly at them and coo about how wonderful they are, and how 'safe' she feels with them . . . and how she knows they will 'always take care of her.' Which they're willing to pledge their last nickel they will!

"Do they ask her if she can or will do housework? Do they mention her carrying her share of the responsibility? No indeed! They're tickled pink if she even notices them. They're just begging to be imposed upon.

MANY SERIOUS GIRLS

"Then, when they're married and see what a poor partner she makes . . . then they're mad as hops, and wonder why they have to make kitchen mechanics of themselves. You'd think they'd learn after a while, but they don't seem to. And then they have the nerve to say that women are easily flattered!

"Well, I know that for every lazy baby doll, there are just dozens of girls who would—and do—take their marriage just as seriously as any business girl takes her job, and are willing to do everything to make it a success. But they're usually the ones who 'never marry.' Why? Because men don't ask 'em!

"A man should know, if he has a lick of sense, what type of girl he is picking for a wife. If he picks Flossie Fluff—and gets stung—whose fault is it?

"But the average man can't see it that way, it seems. He just must have his Fluffy Pet . . . and then complains when he gets her!"

Well, what ya got to say, boys?

Is the lady's indictment true? Do you prefer 'em Fluffy 'n' helpless? Do you pick 'em because they are that way?

Some Girls Clever in Hiding Love Until They Land Their Man, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

If a girl really cannot make up her mind whether she loves a man or not, there isn't any doubt about it. She doesn't love him.

Of course some girls are smart enough to hide their real feelings under a manner of doubt and uncertainty until they have landed their man. Then in case some other girl gets him away from her she can always declare that she didn't want him anyway.

Some girls are so clever in managing their love affairs that their friends are greatly surprised when they do marry some man no one suspected of being the man at all.

But I don't think there is ever any doubt in the heart of any girl as to whom she really loves.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Love's Awakening

Madge's Christmas Day Ends in Complete Happiness

"HEART OF A WIFE"

Adele Garrison's newest phase of "Revelations of a Wife" begins on this page tomorrow. Herein Madge Graham is faced with that most serious of problems for a wife—can she reconcile motherhood and a career?

Philip Veritzen's chair was drawn close to mine, not exactly opposite, but with the sides adjacent, and he leaned toward me deferentially, yet with a little air of possessiveness that made me shrink back against my cushions as he said softly:

"I wonder if you realize how happy you have made me tonight. It is the most memorable Christmas of my life."

"I can readily understand that," I said coolly. "A reconciliation such as you have experienced tonight would make any day memorable. If I have had any share in it I am very glad. But you exaggerate——"

"And you evade," he countered quickly, coming nearer to me and grasping my hands, which he theatrically held close to him. "You have evaded me for months. I almost have despaired of ever making you understand. But when tonight through your wonderful tears you confessed that you could not bear the shattering of your ideal of me, then—my dearest, I had a little foretaste of heaven. Don't struggle, my darling. My whole life is at your feet—my——"

His face was drawing closer to mine. With an effort that wrenched every muscle in my body, I tore my hands loose, pushed my chair back and and sprang to my feet, my hands outstretched, pushing against his breast as he came close to me.

"Oh! Oh!" I gasped sobbingly. "You have misunderstood! I did not mean I couldn't bear your cruelty to Noel and Mary because of you. It was because of . . . em, because I could not bear them to be so unhappy. Oh, can't you see? Please do not make me loathe you! I have no—no—feeling for you, except admiration and friendship. I never have had. I never could have."

"I stopped speaking because I had no breath for another word. And then I heard Mr. Veritzen draw a long sibilant breath, and follow it astonishingly by a low sardonic laugh.

"This is the first time," he began a bit unevenly, "that a woman has ever fooled me, but you certainly have. However, I am the gainer in one way. I never would have yielded to my own heart in the matter of my son if your tears and what I thought was your capitulation had not compelled me to surrender. So I cannot be as angry at you as you deserve. But—my dear, You must pay toll. You cannot permit me to make a spectacle of myself without a forfeit. I would rather you gave it willingly, but——"

He grasped my hands, in so strong a grasp that I could not free them, drew me close to him, and bent his head to mine. But I no longer had strength to resist him. That awful wave of dizziness was rising—rising—about me—it had reached my chin, and I heard only faintly the outer door crash open and Dicky's astonished, angry voice:

"What the devil——?"

I tried to speak, but could utter no sound, and Dicky's voice and that of my employer in recrimination sounded far away. Then, as Mr. Veritzen said sharply: "Look to your wife, man. Can't you see she's fainted?" I felt myself falling, and knew nothing more.

It was hours afterward. I thought, that I came to myself, with the sensation of being at the bottom of a deep black pit. Then I seemed to shoot up through the darkness to the surface, and opened my eyes to see Dicky. Katherine and Lillian gathered around me. And with the unreasoning childishness of a nervously racked person, I burst into weak tears.

"Oh, my Christmas Day! What an ending to it!"

They disappeared into the next room, and I looked up at Katherine.

"What happened?" I asked. "Did I faint? But I never do. Why?"

She gave me the odd look I had seen on her face before, but it was inscrutable no longer. All at once I understood it, and knew the answer to the vague question which had been troubling me for days, but which I had been too rushed to consider.

"Oh!" I gasped, and then I closed my eyes, for the tears were coming fast. To think that this hour of all hours should be spoiled by the memory of Philip Veritzen's folly.

Vaguely I realized that someone was standing by my couch—I had been carried into the library—and then my husband's dear voice, with no anger in it, sounded in my ears.

"Look at me, sweetheart, and forgive your boy."

I opened my eyes to see Dicky's smiling down at me, and I raised my arm and pulled his head down to mine.

"I want to tell you now it happened," I whispered.

"You don't need to," he said. "The old goat was decent enough to tell Lillian about it, and she relayed the information to me, flaying me alive on the side. But—girl of mine—isn't there some way you can leave, I know I'm unreasonable, but I can't bear your working for that old buzzard after this."

I kissed him warmly before I answered.

"That's what I mean to tell you," I said demurely. "I'm taking another position almost immediately."

"Why! What do you mean?" Dicky drew back and looked at me in astonishment.

"I'm getting ready to take care of Junior's little sister," I said softly, and in his exclamation of delight, and the tender embrace in which he folded me, my Christmas came to most blessed fruition.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Some complexions kick up a protest against the soapy scrubbing. There is a way to get the best of them. Anoint the skin surface with a heavy cream. Tap it in with the finger tips. Dip a washcloth in a rich soap suds and place over the face atop the oily barricade. The result is pleasant. The skin looks fresh and clean. Or one can buy substitute cleansing meals for soaps. You can buy meals in beauty emporiums.

"There is a girl I know," confessed the young feller, "who charms and enchants me with her teeth. Isn't that a ridiculous idea? It is a fact. She's a sort of dumb creature not so pretty that she'd stop the traffic. But she has red lips and a radiant smile. When her lips part and she displays those lovely teeth of hers—as white as snow—I get sort of light headed. She knocks me flat." Will the beauty class please take notice? Look up old Doc Dentist's telephone number and get busy on the repair work.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Right Feeding Insures Baby's Future Health

How to feed the baby is a common and difficult problem for the young mother. She must decide whether to nurse the child or feed it artificially.

Dr. Copeland

No mother should decide this important question without the advice of her physician. This decision is of utmost importance. It may determine the future health and the success or failure of the child.

Mother's milk is the natural and ideal food for the infant. Because of this, every mother should nurse her infant, unless there are definite reasons opposing.

There is no other milk comparable to mother's milk. Great advances have been made in the successful preparation of artificial foods for infants. But, perfect as they are, they are never equal to the natural food.

It is true that many bottle-fed children have grown up to be sturdy and healthy individuals. But it is also true that the percentage of childhood diseases is far greater in formula-fed infants.

However, there are definite reasons why some children should not be nursed by mothers. A mother who has tuberculosis, or who is expected of having tuberculosis, should not nurse her infant. If she should nurse her baby, her own condition is sure to be made worse, and the infant is exposed to the infection.

Where the mother must submit to an operation, or suffers from any condition in which much blood is lost she should not attempt to nurse the child. The quality of the milk is lowered by such experience.

If the mother is suffering from any serious constitutional disease and is in a delicate condition, her milk is of little value to the child. Little nourishment is to be had from such feeding, which often causes great harm to the mother.

Let me warn the mother not to be too hasty in declaring there is lack of milk. The suckling of the child may stimulate the flow of milk. Often the milk is delayed for 10 or 12 days.

Since mother's milk is the most perfect food for the infant, weaning should not be hastened. I am sure you will not give up nursing your infant because of any selfish reason. You will be amply repaid for your sacrifice by the growth and development of a wonderful child. The infant should be nursed until it is 8 or 9 months old.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Where They "Auto" Sit

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a girl and a young man enter an automobile, should they both sit on the front seat?

2. Should the girl enter first or the young man who is to drive? N. G.

1. Yes.

2. The young man, who is to drive, holds the car door open and helps the girl into her seat, and then goes around the car to get into his driving seat.

The Formal and Informal Way

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are soon to move to another city and we desire to notify our acquaintances of the change in address. Please inform us of the proper method for so doing. SUBSCRIBER.

The best way is to write informal notes telling your friends of the change and sending them the new address. Or you may have "Mr. and Mrs." cards engraved (they are, as you know, larger than the individual visiting card) with the new address engraved in the lower right corner, in letters of the same type as those used in the name, but smaller. The first way is an informal way, of course, and the last way is more formal and "stylish."

Introducing Four Smiths

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am inviting four brothers with their wives to a dance. Please tell me how I might introduce them "gracefully." Shall I introduce each one separately as "Mr. Smith" or shall I mention their first names "Mr. A. Smith, Mr. B. Smith" and so forth? It seems awkward to mention "Mr. Smith" four times.

2. My escort is a stranger among the people at this affair. Should some of my friends wish to dance with me, shall they ask him or shall I? S.

1. This calls for "grace" in making introductions! In this case, I suggest that you, in each introduction, mention the first name of each brother, as also in the introduction of the wives. That is, as you make the introduction, say, "Mrs. Allen, this is Mrs. Albert Smith"—and "Mrs. Bertram Smith"—"Mrs. Carl Smith — and "Mrs. David Smith." Of course, look at each person whom you are introducing, as you mention her name.

2. Your partner would ask you for the dance. If you are with your escort at that moment, the partner, after he has asked you for the dance, says to your partner, "Do you mind?" or something to that effect; something that "excuses" you.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

NEW YORK, June 25.

I SAT in my office the other night and gazed gloomily at the walls. A severe attack of the blues was giving me the creeps. A wire from Mr. Ziegfeld had just informed me I must return to Pittsburgh immediately. A pink note from the managing editor warned me that, if my copy was late once again, drastic measures would be taken.

High on the wall sat an electric fan that refused to work. In the courtyard below a cat was howling. In the tenement above a baby was screaming. A telephone call from the wife ended in an argument because I said I had left that new dressing gown in Pittsburgh and she said I hadn't. The radiator, which hadn't worked all winter, suddenly began to grow hot. And to top everything beautifully, my hives had just come back.

"What," I muttered to myself, "is the use of all this? Wouldn't it be better to live in a small town and——"

At this precise moment Mr. Walter Winchell stepped into my office. When he saw the expression on my face, a contented smile crept over his pallid map. Mr. Winchell is very strange that way. If I am happy and gay, which seldom occurs, he becomes sour and morose. But if I feel pessimestic and blue, Mr. Winchell immediately rises to the heights. I never saw one man's discontent give another man so much pleasure.

My friend through the years hit me a slap on the back that almost knocked me from my chair.

"Well, well, well," he chirped gleefully, "you look blue again. That's too bad, ha-ha. Did you see my column yesterday? Did you see my column the day before? Got anything for Monday?"

I shook my head.

"I'll tell you, Walter," I began, "I don't——"

Mr. Winchell seldom lets any conversation get much further than that.

"Peggy Joyce is back in town again," he went on. "Isn't that a swell gag about Pantages? You must have plenty of news for me, haven't you? Did you have much fun in Pittsburgh with the Follies girls? Oh, that's right—I forgot the wife was there. Did you see my column for tomorrow?"

I banged the desk.

"Walter," I cried, "if you'll give me half a chance, I'd like to inform you that I feel rotten. I've lost 15 pounds since the Follies went into rehearsal. As far as fun in Pittsburgh is concerned, I saw nothing but Scotch bagpipes and the inside of my hotel room. The show looks good but I——"

At this point Mr. Winchell interrupted me. I learned later that I had done remarkably well in that speech. As a matter of fact I had only missed the world's record for a Winchell non-interruption by a sentence and a half.

"Mark," he said as he put an elbow right through my brand-new straw hat, "the trouble with you is that you're feeling blue. You know what we're going to do right now? We're going around to all the cabarets just as we did in other years. I'm going to get your worries our of your mind. Come on."

Mr. Winchell placed what was left of my hat upon my head and dragged me toward the door.

"Come on, boy," he chirped merrily. "Dr. Winchell will fix you right up. How did you like my column last Monday?"

So a short while later found us in our first cafe.

It was the same old stuff. The master of ceremonies sang a song through what I am polite enough to call a nose. He then introduced six girls who represented six countries with Miss America (applause here) at the end.

Soon a woman came to our table. Mr. Winchell saw her coming and ducked. I was too gloomy to move rapidly. So she nailed me.

"You remember me, Mr. Hellinger," she said. "You saw me in a 'Night in Spain' and you gave me a nice write-up. Could you do it again?

"I'm broken-hearted, Mr. Hellinger. My husband ran away three weeks ago and left me without much money. If you'd write a story about it in your column—like you write them, you know—maybe some reader would send me some dough. I'm broken-hearted, Mr. Hellinger. Honest I am."

What are you doing in a night club?" I asked her.

Her face lit up.

"Oh, I'm out with the swellest fellow you ever met," she cried. "He's grand. I'm crazy about him."

She saw she had said too much. So she shook her head slowly.

"He helps me forget," she sighed . . .

Another cabaret—and further dullness. A third joint—and still worse. I nudged Mr. Winchell.

"What's happened to this town?" I asked him. "What's happened to the old Texas Guinan crowd? What's become of all the laughs we used to have? What . . ."

A drunk fell over my table and spilled a glass of water over my lap. He glared at me.

"Whatasa matter wit' you?" he grunted. "Can'tcha keep your feet where they belong? Wanna pick an argument, huh?"

I'm certain that Mr. Winchell enjoyed that immensely.

"There you are, Mark," he laughed. "You wanted the good old days and now you have them. Remember the time that Charlie Frey spilled four glasses of water on you? I did a column about that episode that——"

It was my turn to interrupt.

"I'm going home," I said. "I'm tired. Thanks for cheering me up. I'm gloomier than ever. So long."

Outside I stepped into a cab that was driven by Mr. Gus Cohen. Mr. Cohen has taken me home from many clubs and has known me for years. Too many years.

I sat back in the machine. Pittsburgh the next day. That meant extra columns to prepare in advance. A long train ride and no sleep. Then more worries. Why had I gone to those dull night clubs? Not a laugh in a barrel of them. Not——

"Where you been?" asked Mr. Cohen as he turned around and paid no attention to his driving. "I haven't seen you in a long time."

"I've been out in Pittsburgh," I sighed. "I've been working on the Follies."

Mr. Cohen gave vent to a loud and prolonged laugh.

"That's a good one," he howled. "Nothing to do but hang around with beautiful Follies girls and go from night club to night club. Oh, boy, what a cinch you have in life!" . . .

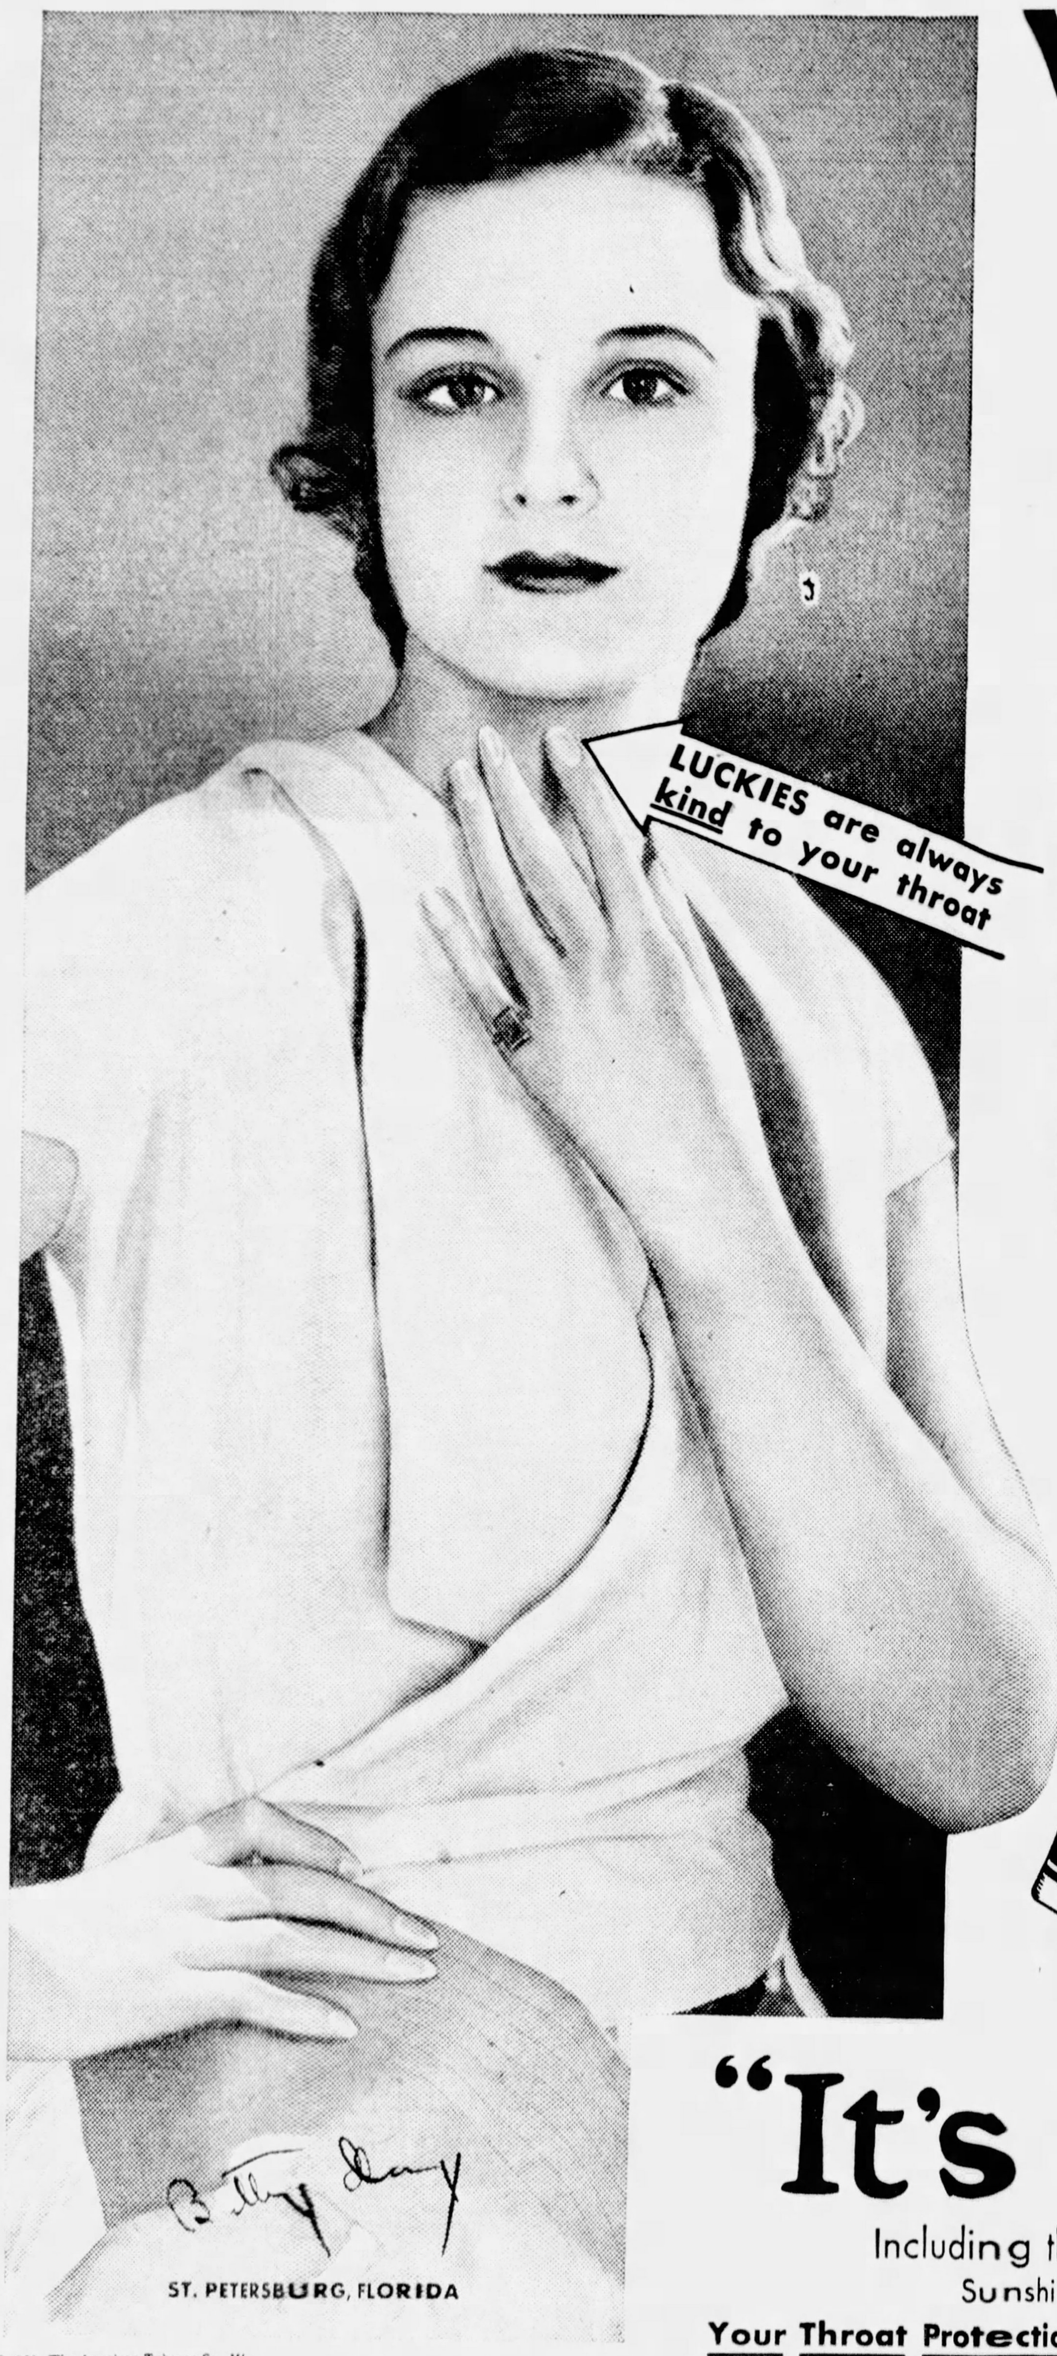
Consider your Adam's Apple!!*

Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants



"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

Touch your Adam's Apple with your finger. You are actually touching your larynx—this is your voice box—it contains your vocal chords. When you consider your Adam's Apple, you are considering your throat—your vocal chords.

When a lawyer makes a statement before a jury he backs it up with sound evidence and facts. Here are the facts:

Certain harsh irritants, present in all raw tobaccos—which are expelled by LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process—are sold by us to manufacturers of chemical compounds. In other words, the removal of these irritants in the manufacture of LUCKY STRIKE is not a mere laboratory procedure for the purpose of getting an advertising phrase—it is a definite and vitally important process in rendering LUCKY STRIKE Cigarettes less irritating than other cigarettes. Remember—LUCKY STRIKE comes to you after certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos have been expelled through the exclusive "TOASTING" Process. No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat. Be careful in your choice of cigarettes.

Judge Kennedy

"I have endeavored at all times to be courteous and patient and to give a calm, practical administration of justice. Technicality has been given short shrift with most of the problems with which I have had to deal.

"My relations with the bar and the assistants in the court have been cordial and mutually helpful. If continued in office I will be on duty every day and all day as usual."

CREW POISONED ON SUBMARINE, WILKINS SAYS

Explorer Tells of Strange Illness Which Delayed Rescue and Repairs at Sea

By CAPT. SIR HUBERT WILKINS
By Radio, via American Radio News Corporation

ABOARD SUBMARINE NAUTILUS, En Route from Cork, Ireland, to Devenport, Eng., June 25.—The Nautilus is en route under tow across St. George's Channel and up the English Channel to Devenport, where the engine and motors which broke down on the cross-Atlantic voyage will be repaired for the trip under the ice to the North Pole.

In two previous dispatches I told how the breakdowns left us helpless in the Atlantic 1,000 miles from the Irish Coast, how the United States battleships Arkansas and Wyoming plowed through heavy seas to our rescue and how a three-hour battle to get a tow line aboard from the Wyoming came to naught when the line parted after we had thought ourselves successful.

HELPLESS IN STORM

It was late on the night of June 14 and we were again helpless in the trough of a heavy sea. The crew was exhausted by its long struggle on the slippery, narrow deck of the Nautilus. By morning we had regained our strength even though we got little rest within the tossing iron shell.

Morning also found the sea calmer. A boat put out from the Wyoming to bring a shackle which we made fast to our towing pennant. Again the crew of the battleship shot a line across our bow. Then the huge boat backed away, bringing us close astern and a hawser with a buoy attached was dropped overboard. Soon we had the buoy aboard and the line was made fast. At last we were secured to the Wyoming.

CREW STRICKEN ILL

We thought we would soon solve our motor trouble and get going under our own power. The electricians and I turned to the motors in the main motor room. The filthy condition of the room was a disgrace. It would have been remedied before putting to sea.

Two or three of the stouter hearts stayed with me most of the night swabbing the pole pieces, armatures and commutators. Tests were made for short circuits and we found a dead one.

In the early hours of the morning many of the crew began to show signs of illness. Sailors years at sea without knowing seasickness became ill.

To make matters worse, we were now in a storm area and were battened down like galley slaves. The air in every room was frightful. Men sprawled about and groaned and added other noises to the natural one of mal de mer. But it was not from seasickness we suffered; it was more like poisoning. All but one or two of the crew were a vivid green.

We were all making a valiant effort to control our stomachs. None of us had been dry for days. Everything was damp and mildewed and a bitter flavor permeated everything. Our water from the newly painted tanks came from the taps in blobs of sickly red. Even the canned goods when exposed for a minute became untouchable. Some of us lived on malted milk tablets.

STEERING GEAR BREAKS

Then early one morning the steering gear broke. The ship sheered abruptly and the towing line parted.

For two days and nights we drifted perilously. Then on Saturday an officer and several hands came over from the Wyoming to replace our towing gear.

By this time we had had the auxiliary motor running for several hours and were about to start the port main engine. Nevertheless we gladly accepted Capt. Dutton's kind offer to tow us to the Queenstown lightship.

While being towed we cleaned up the mess that had accumulated for several days. The ship began once more to be liveable. Thus we arrived in Cork Harbor Monday.

My thanks are freely given to the men on board the Nautilus who have behaved splendidly, and we are not forgetting the hospitable hand held out to us by Ireland. In the waters of the River Shannon our men and ship have gained new life.

RADIOED PICTURE OF SIR HUBERT WILKINS' DISABLED SUBMARINE AS IT WAS TOWED INTO QUEENSTOWN (COBH), IRELAND

The Wilkins polar submarine arrived in Ireland after its 17 days afloat, following a series of mishaps that began when her engines went out of commission. The U. S. S. Wyoming towed her until tugs were sent out from Queenstown to take her to port.

NO JOB, MEDIUM GOES TO JAIL

Explaining that he is a professional medium when business is good, Willie Humphries, 23, Negro, staying at the Labor Temple, Bedford avenue, today told Magistrate Lee Rothenberg:

"Medium business is so poor now I couldn't get any work so I turned shoplifting."

He was held for court on three charges of larceny. Witnesses testified Humphries used a paper-wrapped box, with one side opened, to carry merchandise from the counters of three stores.

Mrs. Pauline Polinshy, 40, of 326 Campbell street, McKees Rocks, was fined $2 when she admitted stealing $13 worth of merchandise from a store. She said her husband has been working only a half day a week and that she had to get clothes for her children.

Breaking Out of Pimples Itched a Lot. Healed by Cuticura.

"My son's trouble started with a breaking out of pimples on his limbs. Later on they festered and scaled over. They itched a lot and at night he was restless and used to scratch. The trouble caused disfigurement while it lasted.

"I used several remedies but they did not help. He had the trouble about a month when I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample of each. Inside of a week he got relief so I purchased more and in about two and a half weeks he was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Margarett Skilton, Cedarville, N. J., Sept. 3, '30.

20 Million Motorists can't be wrong!

WHAT is the best tire made?

After all, conversation aside, that's what you really want to know, isn't it?

But if you want to cut through a welter of words to get the real low-down, listen to the 20 million car owners of the country.

They give the palm to Goodyear.

For 16 consecutive years it has been true that "More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind."

Moreover through an impartial institution, in no way connected with the rubber industry, 205,000 car owners were asked this point-blank question:

QUESTION: "Regardless of price, convenience, etc., what make of tire do you consider the BEST tire made?"

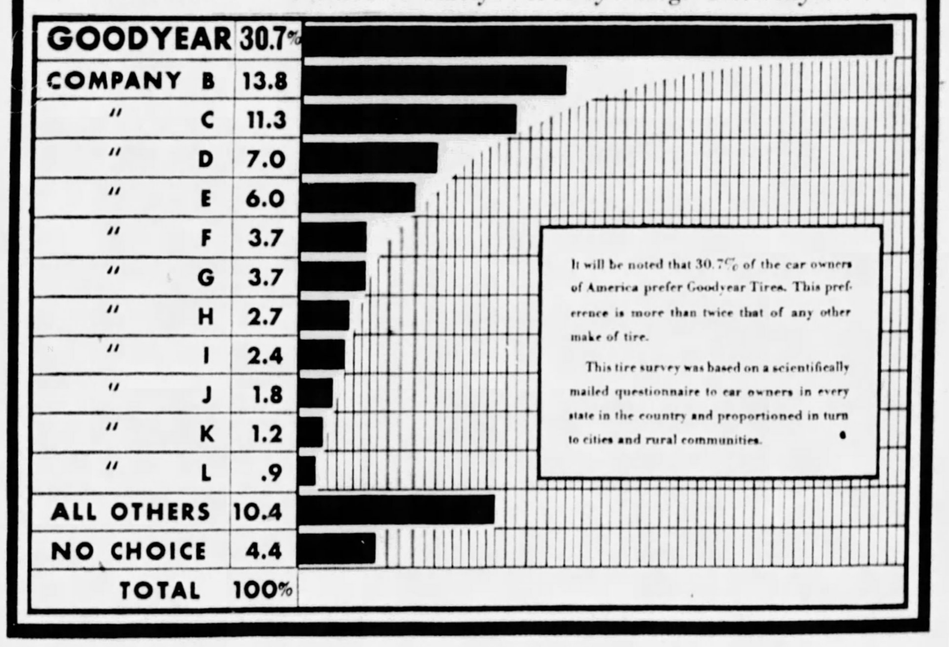
HOW CAR OWNERS VOTED ON THE QUESTION
"WHAT TIRE IS BEST?"
. . . . Based on a National Tire Survey in 1930 by a large University . . . .



If you are technical by nature and want to know the WHY of Goodyear superiority, call and let us demonstrate. We can quickly dispel your last vestige of doubt.

And best of all, we give you good news on prices. A few of which we quote here.

Handkerchiefs Carry Germs Back to Face

No Danger with Kleenex

Soft disposable tissues are used once and destroyed

The name is Kleenex Tissues. These tissues are soft as down, yet cost so little that you destroy each one as soon as it is used. No danger of self-infection.

Think of the millions of germs thus destroyed! Germs you formerly carried back to your face again and again. Then, perhaps, kept for days in clothing or laundry bags.

Perfect for children

Children, particularly, need the protection of Kleenex. They contract respiratory diseases easily. Germs that cause these diseases may be carried and spread by handkerchiefs. Children are careless with handkerchiefs. Give them a package of Kleenex. Teach them to destroy a tissue as soon as it is used.

Important uses

Kleenex is advised by famous beauties for removing cleansing cream. Use it for dusting and polishing. For manicuring. For wiping razor blades, to save towels.

Kleenex comes in convenient packages, at 25c, 50c and $1. At drug, dry goods and department stores.

Bacteriological tests show:

1. That handkerchiefs used by persons having colds may contain as many as 4,170,000 germs per handkerchief. The organisms included are those associated with colds.

2. That organisms associated with colds, when impregnated upon linen and rinsed in boiling water and soap water, were not killed nor appreciably inhibited from growing.

LIQUOR MAKES CHILDREN ILL

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., June 25.—Police are investigating the alleged intoxication of three Beaver Falls children from drinking from a bottle of moonshine liquor found in the Twenty-fourth street playgrounds.

The children, John Gunn, 13, his brother, Russell Gunn, 6, and a cousin, Marian Klear, 12, were found in a dazed condition near the approach to the Eastvale Bridge by Herbert Kelly, motorist, of Ellwood City, and removed to Providence Hospital.

Dr. William F. Beitsch, attending physician, reported to police the children were intoxicated. The older Gunn boy told police he found the bottle at the playgrounds and drank some of the contents.

CHURCH FIGHTS ZONE CHANGE

Council held a public hearing yesterday in connection with a proposal to change from residential to commercial zone, an irregularly-shaped area along Irwin avenue, near McCullough way, Moro way, Fredmore street and Columbia place. A part of this section is already bounded by a commercial area.

The change is opposed by the Fifth United Presbyterian Church and property owners who want the sector to remain a residential plot. Council affirmed the ordinance by a vote of four to one. It will require seven votes to pass it finally. Final action is expected Monday.

Umbstaetter Camp To Open July 6

Camp Umbstaetter, Allegheny County Council, Boy Scouts of America, camp, will open its eighth season Monday, July 6. The camp is situated two miles from Fair Oaks, on Big Sewickley road, and will be in charge of Tom Venable, associate Scout executive. Two hundred and fifty Scouts will be accommodated each week.

A feature will be a display of live specimens of cub bears, fawn deer, foxes, beavers, wildcats, raccoons and other native game animals.

South Hills Groups On Annual Outing

Dannels, Mrs. W. R. Moore, Daisy Kinkley, Isaac K. Myers, Carrie Harris Deakins, Miss E. McClure and F. J. McClure.

The Allegheny Valley Union Sunday schools and the Schaeffer School will hold outings at Kennywood tomorrow.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute.

RADIO SCHEDULES, NOTES

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, June 25.—President Hoover, ardent radio fan, wishes, like the rest of the legion of listeners, for a moderation of the commercial ballyhoo pouring out of radio programs.

At least that is what Phil Cook, air entertainer, says. Recently Cook, like other big shots of the microphone, completed a vaudeville tour which took him, among other leading eastern cities, to Washington.

* * *

The booking was the result of a radio renown which had finally reached the attention of the vaudeville viziers. Alert are the viziers. Always ready are they with the dotted line. They believed they had room for a man whose gift for impersonating a dozen characters had put him definitely in the big tent of the broadcasters. There are people who call him "The Lon Chaney of the Air."

We ran into Cook the other night at the St. Moritz Hotel—a suite facing Central Park is his home—and he discussed with what story-writers once called pardonable pride his recent engagement in Washington and his informal but impressive visit with the President at the White House.

* * *

Following a long line of touring rotarians, Cook had expected a perfunctory handclasp and dismissal which, naturally enough, was all that could be expected from a busy man—essayists have told us he is the busiest man in all the land—who shakes hundreds of hands each day.

Cook was agreeably surprised, however, when his turn came to say "Pleased to meet you, Mr. President" to himself sitting alone with Hoover. Not a secretary, not a flunkey was in sight. A break for a radio actor. A break for any actor, I'd say.

* * *

Hoover, Cook related, expressed a great interest in radio and its possibilities, and mentioned the eager delight of his grandchildren in current programs. Did the grandchildren like his own entertainment? Cook reluctantly admitted that they did. Well, most children do, for that matter.

The President then expressed the hope, the actor said, that commercial sponsors must lessen the strident advertising interpolations now marring the appeal of many interesting programs.

* * *

Hoover found, even as you and I, that this overemphasis of advertising chatter frequently provoked the resentment of the listener, whereas a most subtle introduction of the commercial element would create a distinctly friendly attitude for the program on the air.

* * *

Strange, that more radio artists do not turn their footsteps to the Maison Blanch in their visits to Washington, seek audiences with the Great White Father. Vallee has called there, has even tooted his saxophone for Mrs. Hoover. Phillips Lord was a recent caller. But the President is pretty much neglected by the stars of the microphone—and will be until the campaign fireworks begin in earnest next summer.

* * *

Cook's rise as a microphone personality has been rapid and startling. He composes songs, spills rural wisecracks, gags of New York's sidewalks, writes humorous sketches, sings, plays the guitar and changes his voice at will. Originally he was what a prominent politician once called an artist, but gave up drawing to write musical comedies. You may remember some of them—"Molly Darling," "When You Smile" and "Plain Jane."

The last returned profit enough to pay for his home.

To keep the home fires burning he turned to radio—surprised himself and his family by clicking immediately. He started with a ukulele, but now uses an instrument which he calls a tiple. It is a cross between the uke and mandolin.

Pittsburghers Draw Penitentiary Terms

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—(AP.)—Nicholas Radich and Frank Slago, 20, of Pittsburgh, were sentenced yesterday to 20 to 40 years each in the Eastern Penitentiary after they pleaded guilty to several holdups in this city.

They were arrested June 15 after a chase by police, who sought two men who leaped on the running board of an automobile near City Hall and pointed a pistol at the driver.

Civil Service Body Tells of Vacancies

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced vacancies in the Bureau of Chemistry and Soils, the Bureau of Plant Industry and the Bureau of Prisons. A junior file clerk and under file clerk also are needed. Information may be obtained from the board of examiners in the Post-office Building.

WE NOW PRESENT

By HOWARD L. BROWNING, JR.

Here comes Irene Beasley, the swellest Blues singer we've heard yet, with two numbers over WJAS at 10:45 tonight.

You'll remember her from the 1930 Radio Show. Tonight she'll sing "Hello Bluebird" and "I'm Through With Love" over the Columbia network. You can bank on her two numbers being worth staying up to hear, if you're an early bedder.

You may or Irene Beasley may not like, on the same program, Walter Donaldson's travesty on Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in C Minor." The odds are all against it, before hearing.

NBC scored a radio scoop yesterday over its Red and Blue network with the broadcast from Berlin of interviews with Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, world fliers, a minute or two after they landed there, not 24 hours after leaving Nova Scotia.

Post:

"I'm too tired to say anything. Things have gone very good so far. I think the worst is over."

Gatty:

"I haven't anything to say. We expect to leave in the morning on the next leg of the trip."

A second after midnight Shriners' program will be broadcast at 1 a. m., Saturday, by WHK, Cleveland.

Contralto Helen Oelheim is guest artist on the Red Network program, over WCAE locally, at 9:30 p. m. She'll have some nice numbers, not the least of which, probably will be Nevin's "Little Boy Blue." Not a "blues" song.

One you'll like is Morton Downey with "Two Smiling Eyes," over WJAS at 7:45.

Comedienne Fay Templeton, whom you like so much, will be heard on NBC network three times a week beginning Saturday on WCAE, from 7:30 to 8 p. m.

Try to find time, before tucking your napkin under your belt, for KDKA's Rondoliers, at 6 p. m. You remember the "Gypsy Love Song," "Meditation" and others on the bill.

Tonight's the last KQV broadcast from the Showboat. Next week they start over the same station from the Club Mirador, Homestead.

WWSW repeats at 5:45 today the Cosmo Crooners, a quartet of collegiates with popular songs. Yes, they're young men working their way through school, believe it or not.

Old Tymers' Club Plans Pajama Party

JUST PLAYING AROUND -:- By LEWIS ALLEN BROWNE

Thrilling New Story of Girl's Struggle With Love And Temptation

CHAPTER I.

"What is the name?"

"Kitty—er—Katherine Mason," I stammered.

The woman in the employment bureau of Hunter's Department Store seemed unutterably bored.

"Age?"

"Yes—" I giggled and felt my face burn. "I mean, 18," I answered.

The woman looked up and tapped the heavy imitation tortoise-shell rims of her thick glasses as she stared at me.

"Are you sure?"

"No, I only have the record in the family Bible and the word of my parents for that."

"Flippancy can never be tolerated in this establishment, young person."

That frightened me. I wanted to work in Hunter's. I had to work somewhere.

"I didn't mean to be flippant, it struck me as funny asking a girl if she were sure of her age," I explained.

"We cannot employ anyone under 16, we have to be sure about that. You look—er—rather young," she answered, seemingly mollified.

"I am 18. I was 18 last week," I insisted, and almost took out a little vanity case that Peter Thompson had given me for my birthday, as if that would prove it.

"Have you had any experience?"

"No, but I expect to have in a few weeks—I shall work very hard."

"If you do you will be a curiosity," she remarked, acidly, "girls today seem to think life consists of just playing around!"

The woman herself looked like one who had never played around. I felt sorry for her. She was beckoning to another girl and motioning me away.

"But—how about my application? Do I get the job?" I insisted.

"Come Monday at 8, Miss, but we prefer to call it a 'position'—ask for Mr. Sawyer."

I thanked her. I was so excited because I had actually landed a job that I hurried to reach home and tell about it. I heard the woman asking the same questions and I caught the name, "Molly Parsons."

Part way to the subway entrance I discovered that I had left my bag. Would the stern woman consider me careless? Anyhow I had to go back and get it.

The woman at the desk didn't seem to see me as I picked up my bag. She was questioning still another girl and the one who gave her name as Molly was just leaving. She winked at me as we went down the service elevator together and once on the street she stopped me and began to laugh.

"I thought I'd scream when you handed Frosty-Face that line about how old you was," she cried.

"Did you get a job, too?"

"Uh huh."

INVALID SISTER

"Good. I'll see you Monday. I hope we get work in the same department—someone told me that the clerks are awfully snooty to the beginners," I said.

I nodded.

"All right, Kitty, we'll snoot right back at 'em."

"Sure we will, Molly!"

We grinned at each other and parted.

When I got home and told the good news to my widowed and invalid sister, Cora, she choked up and started to cry.

"Forget it," I pleaded. "I was sick and tired of school. I wanted to go to work anyway."

"It's tough, Kitty, to be so helpless that your little kid sister has to help support you. When I get well I'll make it all up to you."

I comforted her as best I could.

That night father patted my shoulder when I told him.

"I'm not worrying about you, Kit, you are too bright to ever be a failure—before long I expect you will own a half interest in the store."

Father smiled but I knew that he was feeling mighty blue because he had hoped to send me to college and now with his own work slack and sister Cora and her two kiddies to look out for, there wasn't a chance.

Peter Thompson came in Sunday evening. This didn't create any particular riot because Pete had been coming in to see me almost every Sunday evening for a year.

PLAN MARRIAGE

We went out to a neighborhood movie and I told him about going to work next day.

"That's all right with me, Kitty," he said. Pete always talked as if he already owned me.

"And if it wasn't? I asked, teasingly.

"Aw, now, Kitty, you know soon's I finish my apprenticeship and get to be a real plumber I'll start out at sixty a week—"

"You've mentioned that before," I reminded him.

"And then we'll get a little three-room flat and start housekeeping—we'll be married first thing after I start out as a real plumber."

"Now, Kitty—don't be like that. We can get along fine on what I'll make.

"Sure—we can play around all the time."

"Who wants to play around all the time?" he demanded, a

While playing in front of his home, James Goettman, 6, of Adams street extension, Rochester, was struck by an auto and suffered injuries which caused his death early today in Rochester General Hospital. WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 25.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

There is one big advantage about proposing plans and schemes for the world's solution now. None of them can be acted on till Congress meets in December, and by that time all of the ones proposed now will be forgotten and a new batch will be brought out. We can't maintain excitement over any one thing over a couple of weeks at the most. The world is not going to be saved by anybody's scheme. It's fellows with schemes that got us into this mess. Plans get you into things, but you got to work your way out.

Yours, WILL.

Seek to Identify Body Found in Woods

Deputy coroners today were endeavoring to identify the body of a man, aged about 45, that was found in the woods above the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks near the River road, Baldwin Township. George Lengal and George Balego, of McClurg street, told police they found the body while they were picking elderberry blossoms. The man had been dead several months, it was said.

MOTIVE SOUGHT IN NORTHSIDE SLAYING

Girl Seeks to Recover Car Used by Victim, Alleged Bootleg Supply Dealer

A surprise development in the investigation of the killing of Morris Curran, alleged bootleg supply merchant, shot to death at his new home, under construction at 2918 Perrysville avenue, was promised today by homicide detectives.

Curran, at first thought slain as the result of a gang war, came to his death for other reasons, detectives said. They refused to divulge the circumstances, although they declared they expected the arrest of a woman today.

MYSTERY WOMAN

Who the woman is or what connection she may have with the case they would not disclose.

Gladys Tietz, who gave her address as 2729 Perrysville avenue, homicide squad sleuths said today, called the detective bureau late yesterday following the murder and asked how she could get back her Hupmobile sedan which police towed from the scene of the shooting.

The sedan is alleged by police to have been driven by Curran just before he was shot.

Miss Tietz was told to appear at the detective bureau and sign release papers for the car which is registered in her name, police claim.

SHOT FIVE TIMES

Curran was slain by one of three men who drove up in a sedan. Two jumped out, showing revolvers, while the third stayed at the wheel. One of the two fired five shots into Curran's body, police said.

Homicide Detectives James O'Kane and Robert Carroll found the murderers' car several hours later near the scene of the shooting. They learned it had been purchased from a North Side agency.

The dealer, M. F. Abbott, of the Abbott Motor Sales Company, 1325 Pennsylvania avenue, told of a visit by a young man of foreign appearance, who said he was Frank Mullior, of Fisk street.

The youth, Abbott said, appeared at the agency last Wednesday to purchase the car. He obtained the machine Monday.

Police Raid Home, Seize Still, Rum

A still was found in operation, police say, when they raided a dwelling at 131 Shetland avenue, East End, last night. The raiders, under Lieut. William Fullerton, broke down a door to enter and, in addition to the still, confiscated 2,100 gallons of mash and 25 gallons of moonshine, they said. No one was in the house at the time.

Gangsters' Victim Found Slain by Road

CLEVELAND, June 25.—(AP.)—The body of a man believed slain by a gangland bullet and identified as Kibbon Langman, 28, who, police said, was a reputed gambler, was found early today at the side of United States highway No. 422 in Moreland Hills, southeast of here.

Uncle Sam Champ In Tossing of Discus-Dollars

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Europe has accepted the Hoover debt holiday with a grace that is almost girlish.

It gives the world a chance to catch up on its postponed optimism and to eliminate its Saturday night bath in red ink.

There seems to be some slight clash with the Young plan, which is already prematurely aged.

We don't understand what it's all about. It's probably something else anyway.

Which is the real mark of international goodwill and fixtures. All journeys are shorter when you meet each other halfway.

For the last 12 years Europe has called us Uncle Shylock. But from now on we guess we have earned the title of Good Old Aunt Minnie.

Doctor Believes Woman Intruder, Loses Gems

Because he believed the story of a Negro woman he found in his home late yesterday, that she had entered by mistake, Dr. Charles E. Shultz, Willow avenue, Castle Shannon, was robbed of jewelry valued at more than $2,000 late yesterday.

Returning from a call to find the woman in his home, the physician permitted her to depart, after being assured his services were not required. A few minutes later, according to Police Chief Elmer Zeiler, Dr. Shultz found a rear window open.

A search of the home revealed a platinum ring set with a one-and-on-half carat diamond and eight smaller ones, a jade ring valued at $500 and other jewelry missing.

SCHOOL STONE PLACED BY MRS. FALK

Exercises Held at Site Of Elementary Institution; Fall Opening Planned

The cornerstone of the new Falk Elementary School was laid yesterday with ceremonies at the site, Center and University drive. Mrs. Marjorie Falk Levy, who with her brother, Leon Falk, Jr., donated the school in memory of their mother, put the stone in place. The school, to be known as the Fanny Edel Falk Elementary School, will open in the fall in co-operation with the University of Pittsburgh.

The school, an experiment in education here, will do little formal teaching. Under the plans, the pupils will be guided in learning rather than led. Included will be a nursery for children of 3 to 4 years, a kindergarten and six elementary grades for children up to 10. It will absorb the present community school. Dr. Martin F. Chworowsky, now head of the smaller school, is to be the principal.

Dr. John G. Bowman, chancellor of the university, presided at the cornerstone ceremonies. Speakers were Dr. J. Freeman Guy, first associate superintendent of schools; Benjamin Thaw, a member of the university board, and Mrs. Levy, who gave a brief summary of her mother's life. Dr. S. B. Linhart gave the invocation.

A box containing Mrs. Levy's speech, copies of the agreement which made the structure possible and copies of the Pittsburgh "Record," a university publication, was placed in the stone.

They testified against Charles Schmidt, 26, of 819 Sawmill way, who police charged conducted the brewery in a building in the rear of his home. Schmidt was held for court charged with violating the Snyder act.

The boys said they bottled beer for Schmidt, police declared, and when he failed to pay them they stole the three cases.

STATE POLICE GET AIR PERMIT

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(AP.)—The Radio Commission yesterday granted a license to the Pennsylvania state police for radio station at Harrisburg, to operate on 257.7 kilocycles with 300 watts power.

BLEDSOE TAKES STAND IN OWN DEFENSE

Details Association With Victim of Train and Tells Of Fatality on Crossing

UNIONTOWN, June 25.—R. C. Bledsoe, former county detective, charged with the murder of Elmer Younkin, who was killed on a railroad crossing in Bledsoe's car, today was a witness in his own defense. He detailed his association with Younkin and told of the fatal crash.

In his opening address, Attorney Alex Goldstein, outlining the Bledsoe defense, said that the former detective had given Younkin work, after the latter had testified in Federal Court at Erie against members of his own family and was afraid to go home. He said Younkin was leading Bledsoe to Ohio Pyle to arrest two robbers when the car was wrecked at Wheeler.

Judge S. John Morrow yesterday refused to direct a verdict of acquittal, made by defense attorneys in the face of an admission from George Graham, a witness, that he had signed a false eye-witness story of the crash at Bledsoe's request.

Thirty-eight state's witnesses have been heard since Monday. At the close of the commonwealth testimony late yesterday, the defense contended that the evidence produced against Bledsoe was entirely circumstantial and of insufficient quality and volume and asked for binding instructions for acquittal.

Graham, who lives at Tarr Station, Westmoreland County, furnished the sensation of the entire trial when he testified that at the request of Bledsoe he faked a sworn statement about the fatal wreck.

Air 'Peeping Toms' Protested by Sun Bathers

Sun-soakers in the solarium atop the new Y. W. C. A. have become provoked at rude passengers in low-flying airplanes who lean out windows, wave handkerchiefs and stare with mirthful faces.

So a towel-clad delegation marched downstairs yesterday and demanded that air lines change their courses.

COUNCIL ACTION HALTS PLANS FOR JULY 4

Appropriation Dispute Raises Legality Question; Contracts Held Necessary

Plans for the city's athletic meet July 4 at Schenley Park, under direction of the Amateur Athletic Union, have hit a temporary snag because of Council's action yesterday.

The delay is the result of dispute among city officials as to how $1,000 appropriated by Council shall be spent.

Councilman Harry A. Little suggested the money be spent as the Bureau of Recreation and the Public Works Department saw fit.

President John S. Herron and Finance Committee Chairman W. Y. English asserted Council, by law, was not permitted to do this and that contracts would have to be let.

Further action on the field meet was held up pending conference to be attended by Lang, Controller Kerr and City Solicitor Waldschmidt.

PARLEY SLATED ON CHANGES IN MARKET

Diamond and Real Estate Interests to Confer With Lang On Proposed Steps

A conference is to be held soon among representatives of the Diamond Market Protective Association, the Real Estate Board, Building Owners and Managers' Association and Public Works Director Edward G. Lang, relative to development of a plan for improvement of the Diamond Market.

This decision followed a public hearing yesterday, held by Council, of which President John S. Herron was chairman. All the groups were represented. Discussion hinged on a recent proposal of the protective association for a five-year lease and complete control of the market. The organization is to return a profit to the city under terms of the proposal.

The plan of the real estate groups presented sometime ago was also discussed. Representatives of the groups indicated they favored their proposals against any formulated by the merchants, and said the Diamond plan "worked all for the benefit of the merchants."

A plan formulated by the Real Estate Board is to reduce personnel, cost of operation and to have the city furnish only electric service and general maintenance of the building. Part of the program has already been carried out by Director Lang. At least $30,000 will be saved annually by his action, Lang estimated.

LACE AND FUR IS GOOD COMBINATION

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, June 25.—Have you a little lace frock in your home? If you haven't, why not? For lace is still quite the thing for the evening frock, ranging all the way to the simple little wisp of a thing to the quite grand and imposing ensemble. It is really amusing to observe the chameleon qualities of lace. It can be used for a plain little dinner frock, while one's very, very best frock, reserved for gala occasions, is frequently also of lace. Of course, there is always one proviso, the lace must be of excellent quality. Don't get enmeshed in lace unless you are prepared to pay the price. Just now we are frequently meeting lovely evening ensembles of lace trimmed with fur. The result being extremely gratifying, but, of course, quite elaborate. A lovely combination, especially when worn by a very attractive woman. When lace and fur are used together, the frock is invariably very simply styled and detailed, otherwise it would be apt to look theatrical or overdone.

* * *

OF THE TYPE described above is the lace and fur ensemble by Redfern. It is elaborate and yet there is a simple note about it, due, of course, to the cut of the frock and coat. The lace is ivory toned and is of a rather heavy rich texture. The front of the simple bodice is trimmed with three white roses, placed vertically. There is a jacket of the lace trimmed with sable. To achieve a crisp smart flare, the skirt is posed over a foundation of white horsehair lace.

READY FOR WORK

Pete said something about having to get up early and go over into Brooklyn on a job. He kissed me and left.

I had to be at Hunter's at 8 the next morning, so I tried to go to sleep at once, but it took me quite a while, my mind was so full of questions—would I like the work?—could Pete really make me always happy?—what would I do at the store?—wasn't a girl expected to play around and be happy?

Promptly at 8 I was at the employment bureau office at Hunter's. Molly had already arrived. There were seven of us. A bald little man came in with cards in his hand. Three other men followed him in and lounged against the desk looking us over as though we were something for sale on a counter.

We were told to remove hats and coats, and stood up as our names were called from the slips.

Two of the girls had already worked in stores. One of the men questioned them about linens and took them out.

"Tell him we want to work together," Molly whispered to me.

"They don't like to have chums work together, too much gabbing," I whispered back. My sister Cora had told me that.

A woman came in then and, after looking over the slips, took two more of the girls. That left three of us. The two men began arguing and whispering. The bald little man, Mr. Sawyer, joined in. Finally he said, "Mr. Fallon has priority in this."

The man named Fallon came over to me.

OVERHEARS COMPLIMENT

"I'm the toilet articles, Miss —er—" he looked at the card, "Miss Mason. I shall want you in that department, and this young lady," he indicated Molly, I slipped her a wink and she giggled.

"I am sure I shall like that department," I managed to say.

"My name is Fallon—I am Mr. Fallon."

"Yes, Mister Fallon," and for the life of me I couldn't help accenting the "mister." Molly giggled again, the silly.

He took us down into the store where clerks were already uncovering counters and getting ready for the day's work.

In the big toilet article department Mr. Fallon met a Mr. Thornton, floor manager, as I soon learned. He looked us over.

"I'm going to put the blonde in the perfumes," I heard Mr. Fallon say to Thornton. To my surprise Mr. Thornton shook his head after looking me over.

"No, no—give her the shaving creams, safety razors and that stuff," he ordered.

"But I have—"

Mr. Fallon's objection was cut short.

Mr. Fallon stubbornly shook his head.

They didn't know that I was edging nearer, ears quivering to hear whatever was said about me.

"One flash from that girl's eyes and any man is sunk!" Mr. Thornton said.

ECONOMICAL AND EASY TO MAKE JAMS AND JELLIES

Don't let summer go by without putting up some preserves, jellies and jams. Your family will thank you and with every glass and jar you open next winter, you'll save real money. Sugar is being sold everywhere at a price that is unusually low, and bargains in fruit may be expected throughout the season.

There is a place in every meal for canned fruit of some sort. You can make economical desserts and salads with them that are wholesome and delicious. Jellies also make a taste-pleasing dessert when served with cream cheese and crackers. And when you have rice pudding, top each serving with a spoonful of jam.

Remember, too, that sweet relishes made of vegetables are delicious with meat and fish. Watch your fruit and vegetable market so you can take advantage of the bargain-day prices. Preserve with refined cane sugar. The Sugar Institute.

PERJURY LAID TO GRID STAR

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 25.—(AP.)—Supreme Court Justice Graham Witschief has ordered all documents in the divorce counter-suit brought by William H. (Big Bill) Edwards, former collector of the Port of New York, against Mrs. Norma Jones Edwards, turned over to District Attorney Frank H. Coyne.

Sydney H. Syme, Edwards' counsel, announced in court he had withdrawn from the case.

Edwards, a former Princeton football star, married Mrs. Norma Jones Steelsmith, of Marengo, Ia., in 1928. Early this year she sued him for separation. Edwards brought a counter action for divorce. A statement in support of the divorce case was made under the signature of Frank Passo, said to be a chauffeur. Lee Parsons Davis, Mrs. Edwards' counsel, declared there was no such person as Passo and said:

Pitt Man Believes Seething Ocean Under Ground

CHICAGO, June 25.—(AP.)—A theory that the earth's surface rests on a seething, liquid sea 60 miles below, was advanced by Dr. I. A. Nedai, of the University of Pittsburgh, at the annual meeting of the American Society for Testing Materials.

He drew the analogy that the surface is constantly moving in that liquid like an iceberg in an ocean. He said:

WOODCOCK AIRS PUBLICITY PLAN

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(AP.)—Although Congress cut off the Prohibition Bureau's appropriation for distributing brochures about the dry law, the bureau has laid plans to continue collecting and disseminating this information in another way.

Prohibition Director Woodcock, in a circular sent to all administrators, said the banned "Division of Research and Public Information" would merely change its name on July 1 and shift its output from printed pamphlets to "formal press releases for the director's use on such topics and at such times as may be deemed necessary."

Woodcock said the renamed division would study, particularly, the "origin, quantity and direction of the illegal (liquor) traffic," and, in short, endeavor to obtain "information of enemy operations."

WOMAN, MAN AND BOY SHOT

NEW YORK, June 25.—(AP.)—Frank Crawford was arrested last night charged with shooting and seriously wounding Ethel Pennington in the street in front of the woman's home.

Police said Crawford shot five times, three of the bullets striking the woman, one injuring a 5-year-old boy who stood nearby and another striking a man in the arm.

At a Brooklyn hospital Miss Pennington said she had discovered two months ago Crawford was married and would have nothing to do with him. The shooting was said by police to have followed upon an unsuccessful attempt by Crawford to effect a reconciliation.

Wheat Crop Estimate Boosted by Millions

TOLEDO, June 25.—(AP.)—Flour millers from Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky, in convention here today, considered possibilities for greater prosperity for the wheat farmer.

They estimate that the wheat harvest in these states this year will be 95,000,000 bushels, as compared with the present government estimate of 82,000,000.

Mexican Governor Given Forced Leave

MEXICO CITY, June 25.—(AP.)—A La Presa dispatch from the state of Colima today said that the state legislature had forced Gov. Laureano Cervantes, whose administration has recently been much criticised, to take a 45-day leave of absence. It is predicted Cervantes will resign at the end of his leave of absence.

These mild tobaccos need no parching

CIGARETTES are sometimes made of rank, strong tobaccos that have been parched in an attempt to reduce their sting and bite.

Camels, however, are a blend of choice Turkish and mellow Domestic tobaccos that give off cool, mild smoke together with all that delightful flavor and aroma that would be lost by parching.

To preserve every vestige of that flavor, the natural moisture is air-sealed-in by an outer wrapping of moisture-proof Cellophane called the Humidor Pack.

If you are not a Camel smoker, why not switch over to this brand for one day.

After you have found how delightfully mild they are, how cool to your throat, how full of flavor and aroma, then leave them—if you can.

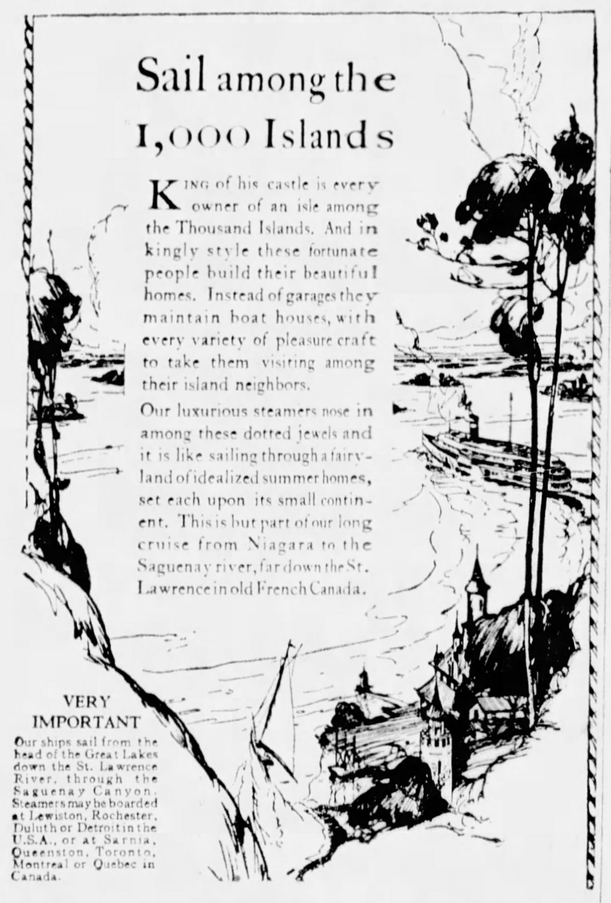
Sail among the 1,000 Islands



KING of his castle is every owner of an isle among the Thousand Islands. And in kingly style these fortunate people build their beautiful homes. Instead of garages they maintain boat houses, with every variety of pleasure craft to take them visiting among their island neighbors.

Our luxurious steamers nose in among these dotted jewels and it is like sailing through a fairy-land of idealized summer homes, set each upon its small continent. This is but part of our long cruise from Niagara to the Saguenay river, far down the St. Lawrence in old French Canada.

VERY IMPORTANT

Our ships sail from the head of the Great Lakes down the St. Lawrence River, through the Saguenay Canyon. Steamers may be boarded at Lewiston, Rochester, Duluth or Detroit in the U.S.A., or at Sarnia, Queenston, Toronto, Montreal or Quebec in Canada.

El Brendel to Put the Comedy Into John Gilbert's New Picture

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate.

HOLLYWOOD, June 25.

For the first time since he joined the Fox Company two years ago, El Brendel is leaving the lot to work in another studio.

He is loaned to M. G. M. and will furnish the comedy in Jack Gilbert's forthcoming "West of Broadway."

From the synopsis of the story El has considerable work lined up to furnish relief to the dramatic outline. The story tells of a girl throwing over her sweetheart when the doctors tell him he has only a short time to live. He begins drinking and marries a girl of the streets. In his sober moments he cannot abide her, but eventually he realizes his mistake when he learns her love for him is sincere.

El Brendel

Although it is not settled as yet, Colleen Moore may have one of the leading roles. She arrived from New York last night and is making tests at the studio.

"West of Broadway" is an original by Bess Meredyth and Ralph Graves. Gene Markey is doing the dialogue and adaptation and Harry Beaumont will direct.

This will make the third picture in a row for Gilbert and upon its completion he is going to take a rest. He plans to spend three months in the South Seas with a possible side trip to Hawaii.

A SOUR PROSPECT

As he stepped into his front yard the other day, Wallace Smith was confronted by a rag and bottle peddler who inquired if he had any old beer bottles.

"Do I look like I drank beer?" answered Wally.

"Oh, let it go," snapped the peddler. "Say, you wouldn't have any vinegar bottles would you?" he cracked as he whipped up his horse.

LATEST GOSSIP

Reports from the Rex Bell ranch are to the effect that Clara Bow has refused an offer to sign with Earl Carroll's Vanities.... It's been a disastrous week-end for Warner Bros.' leading ladies, with Constance Bennett, Marilyn Miller and Evalyn Knapp all in hospitals. And the police out with a warrant for Una Merkel because of a speeding charge. The three invalids are all doing nicely, and Miss Merkel will no doubt pay if she hasn't already.

Constance Bennett

....Within a short time Ina Claire will be able to tell whether one's name is actually suited to them or not, as she is a numerology addict and is seriously studying the subject.... The new contract list at Paramount reveals that Norman Foster has been dropped from the roster. He is now in the East visiting his wife, Claudet Colbert.... Soon all of the colleges will have the stars selecting their most beautiful co-ed. Recently Clive Brook officiated for a college in Washington, and now Lew Ayres has picked the girl for the University of Arizona. This institution even went one better and had Helen Twelvetrees choose the handsomest man.... After searching the schools for a lead for "Are These Our Children?" Radio is going to stay in the confines of the industry and give the part to Richard Cromwell.

Fourth 'Whoopee Party' In Penn Tonight

The fourth "Whoopee Party," added stage feature every Thursday night, will be held tonight in the Penn, with another group of radio performers and local song, dance and instrumental entertainers listed for appearance. Hal Yates, master of ceremonies in the current stage unit, and H. M. Addison, Penn manager, will divide the "m. c." honors for the "Whoopee" presentation.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Back of the rail in the Nixon every day when the "Follies" is going through a rehearsal, and that's every day except matinee days, a little man walks forth and back and stops here and there for a few minutes to look at the stage. Occasionally he walks down the aisle to say a word or two to some one in the groups seated near the stage. No, its not Ziggy—we said a little man, meaning stature, of course. A smallish man, whose sharp eyes are a character index of an eager, serious face. Don't be impatient, please, allow a fellow time for the introduction of a little atmosphere in which to place his hero, who, in this instance, is none other than Dave Stamper. Dave is one of the authors and composers of the "Follies." Dave has been one of them since ever so long ago. We guess that, without Dave Stamper and Gene Buck, Ziggy wouldn't even think of getting out a "Follies." It may sadden Dave to see us break down and confess it, but, considered merely as an author and composer, we'd scarcely give him a tumble here. He intrigues our whimsical and unsettled fancy for the moment because he is an ex-artist of the "Follies." Yup, Dave has performed often on the very Nixon stage where he now watches others strut and play their little parts. We with long memories remember him—them—well and pleasantly. Dave Stamper and Edna Leedom. Dave at the piano, playing his own melodies, and the radiant Miss Leedom singing his songs. Kidding one another, much to the amusement of the audience. Their act always was a big act, too, even in such a big thing as the "Follies." And now Miss Leedom is Mrs. Millionaire Husband and mother of a child, while Dave watches how the rehearsals progress. Does it make him sad? You'd think it should, wouldn't you? One would think that there'd be something missing if one were removed from the midst of the glamor and the hurly-burly and the make-believe of such a world of enchantment that one once was part of. But, dash it all, Dave is such an annoying chap, that he is glad he is walking up and down the rail instead of being a mummer on the stage. He says he never—don't you believe him—wrote a good song when he was trying to be both actor and composer. He must have heard about the saying—let who will be president of the nation if he may only write its songs. Anyway, that's the kind of a boy he is, so don't be sorry for him because he no longer wears the actor's motley (dinner clothes) and struts the mimic stage. He is perfectly satisfied. But what about your public, Dave? I certainly can't be all of it.

Small Timer, ragging his family again, says he has a romantic sister who yearns for an elopement but is so homely that not even a horse would run away with her.

* * *

A new song for Helen Morgan, "Just a Smile," was sung for the first time at the matinee performance of the "Follies" yesterday, giving that audience something to boast about if the song should prove to be a hit. It is a sentimental ballad with pathos and feeling—and you know how Miss Morgan can put over that kind of material!

Small Timer says the bluebird may be all right as a symbol of happiness but he prefers a larger fowl when he's hungry.

'Daddy Long Legs' Held Over in Enright

"Daddy Long Legs," starring Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter, has been held over two days at the Enright. "Everything's Rosie," comedy feature, with Robert Woolsey, which was to have opened in the Enright Friday, will not open until Monday. In the future the Enright will begin its pictures on Monday and Thursday instead of Friday and Tuesday.

Notes About Coming Bills

"Pittsburgh On Parade," all-Pittsburgh musical revue opens in the Stanley tomorrow. The screen feature will be "Up For Murder," starring Lew Ayres.

"I Take This Woman," co-starring Gary Cooper and Carole Lombard, opens tomorrow in the Penn. It is a picturization of "Lost Ecstasy," the novel by Mary Roberts Rinehart.

Charlie Ruggles' first starring picture, a farce called "The Girl Habit," will open tomorrow in both the Fulton and Sheridan Square theaters. Donald Meek, Tamara Geva, Margaret Dumont and Sue Conroy are in the supporting cast.

FARCE COMEDY

"Too Young to Marry," with Loretta Young and Grant Withers, and Bob Custer in "A Son of the Plains," will be the double feature bill in the Harris, beginning Saturday.

NEXT WEEK'S BILLS

Capt. Menke announces with pride that next week's attraction on his original Mississippi River showboat, the Golden Rod, now anchored at Montrose, just above Aspinwall, will be the four-act drama, "Deserted at the Altar." New vaudeville specialties will be offered between the acts.

Elissa Landi will be seen in her second American picture, "Always Goodbye," in the Warner next week, opening with a Sunday midnight show. Lewis Stone and Paul Cavanagh are also in the cast.

Ban Smokes For Beauties

"Miss United States" and "Miss Memphis" have been signed for the Ziegfeld "Follies" as well as "Miss Universe." All these lasses are "Misses So-and-So" of the recent Galveston beauty pageant. And they're going to be good little girls. There will be no smoking and no drinking.

This is not stipulated directly in their contract with Mr. Ziegfeld, but it is banned in a contract the girls have made with Martin Starr, managing director of the Galveston contest. The latter contract continues effective in conjunction with the Ziegfeld contract.

Miss Universe is Mlle. Metta Duchateau and came from Belgium. Miss United States is Ann Lee Patterson, a Kentucky girl. Miss Memphis is Lena Thomas and she's from Tennessee. The three will be with the "Follies" when it opens in New York.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Wonder why the Lambs never seem to catch that note? . . . That spark? . . . That Broadway Something? . . . That the Friars always pack in their Frolics? . . . The Lambs Gambols are always so arty . . . So starchy, so stiff, so dull . . . The Friars manage to breathe . . . They put on the gayest folderols, and send you home feeling alive . . . Too bad the Frolics held Sunday evening was only put on for one performance . . . They might have staged it at Madison Sq Garden and gathered so much more coin . . . After the long series of expert clowning, ribbing, joking and gagging the finale touched you so . . . Mr. Cohan's genius, of course, made it a lovely thing . . . I mean that scene revealing the Monastery of the club with all the members grouped on one side of the stage reverently looking on . . . While the spirits of Sam Bernard, David Belasco, Louis Mann, George LeMaire, Raymond Hitchcock and Eddie Foy sizzled each other at a corner table . . . And the spirit of Joe Schenck one-fingered a melody on a Steinway and tenored the tune . . . The Schenck impersonator canary'd almost exactly like Joe used to sing . . . Wonder what Gus Van thought as he looked on . . . Most touching was the fact that Foy was being played by his Junior.

Wonder if the newspapers which stated that the leading lady attempted suicide because the critics were mean will report the facts? . . . That she didn't swallow poisonous tablets over the reviewers, at all, but because Love Is What Makes the World Go 'Round with That Pained Expression . . . As a matter of fact, her play wasn't covered by the First-Line oracles, but by their shadows. . . . And, according to eye-witnesses, whatever those critics reported was accurate, for it was a hammyteurish production . . . And that the audience tittered at her performance, several of them walking out to suppress their laughter . . . My sympathy goes out to the hat-check gal at the Calais Club, who killed herself because Her Man came out second in a gat duel with a detective . . . The rags gave her two lines . . . That's what she gets for not being a "Follies" doll.

They were saying of Jimmy Walker that he never fails to say the right thing at the right time . . . Ever since he stopped his tormentors with: "I'll match my private life with any man's!" I have envied him so—for being the parent of what certainly will remain the classic crack of the century . . . It was fun last night trying to get to sleep—instead of counting sheep—trying to figure out one man who could have accepted that challenge . . . We are all so illicit . . . And it's about time they altered the simile "Ugly as sin." . . . It is the most attractive thing in the world . . . That blind man who dances so enthusiastically at the Cotton Club reminds me of another afflicted youth . . . Tom Pierce, Jr., son of a St. Louis attorney, who is paralyzed . . . But he manages to take his fun where he finds it, as the quip goes, in the not-so-gay places . . . They tell me he invests at least 50 Gs a year in Whoopee . . . Eugene Sue summed up the sitch-ee-ay-shun in fewer words . . . That nothing is so healthful as Joy.

Chevalier is a shrewd showman, at that . . . He doesn't wait to stale . . . He keeps polishing up his routines, for he is blessed

Capone, Race In Hearst News

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Sidelights on the great American Derby at the Washington Park track in Chicago as shown in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News are almost as interesting as the race itself. Not the least enthusiastic in the vast assemblage was Al Capone, who will be sentenced to prison within a few days. He is shown apparently without a care, waving his hat and cheering as Mate crosses the finish line. Globe Trotter vividly describes every detail of the race.

From the historic precincts of 10 Downing street, London, Ramsey MacDonald, premier of England, sends to the world through Hearst Metrotone News, an avowal that England is through with war. England, the Premier says, is determined to bend every effort to see that peace is preserved.

RUTH IN AIR

Ruth Nichols, who planned a solo flight from America to Paris, is shown hopping off on the first lap of her flight. It was only a short time afterward that she crashed at St. John, N. B.

While a New Jersey crowd looks on sorrowfully, United States prohibition agents seize a huge warehouse in Newark and capture 175,000 gallons of beer, contained in 8,500 barrels. The crowd groans as it looks on, on one of the hottest days of the year, as the wreckers proceed to smash the barrels.

PRESIDENT AND KING

JOKER IN BIG DEAL TURNS OUT PRIZE

WHILE MANY MAJOR league pitchers of high repute have fallen far below their old standings this year and failed to deliver in the quantities anticipated, there have been some surprises in the opposite direction, too. Hurlers of whom comparatively little was expected have given their clubs valuable service. An outstanding example is Jumbo Elliott, the giant southpaw of the Phillies.

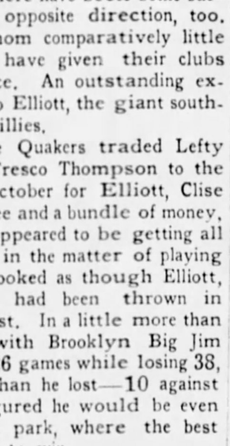
Jumbo Elliott

When the Quakers traded Lefty O'Doul and Fresco Thompson to the Robins last October for Elliott, Clise Dudley, Hal Lee and a bundle of money, Burt Shotton appeared to be getting all the worst of it in the matter of playing material. It looked as though Elliott, in particiular, had been thrown in merely as ballast. In a little more than four seasons with Brooklyn Big Jim had won only 26 games while losing 38, in only one year had he won more than he lost—10 against seven in 1930—and the dopesters figured he would be even less useful in the Phillies' bandbox park, where the best pitchers in the league find it difficult to win.

BUT THERE'S NEVER any telling how a baseball trade is going to turn out. Whereas O'Doul and Thompson have been disappointments in Brooklyn, Elliott, the joker in the deal, has proved the most valuable of the five men mixed up in the swap. With the season only 10 weeks old, against six defeats he has won nine games for the Phils, or 50 per cent more than Dazzy Vance, the $23,000 star, has won for the Robins. The big lefthander has bagged six of his last eight tilts and was beaten twice by only one run.

Only four pitchers in two big leagues have won more games than Jumbo. They are Lefty Grove with 13, George Earnshaw with 12, Rube Walberg with 11, and Wes Ferrell with 10. Besides, Elliott has been the prize workhorse of the year. In addition to his own games, he has relieved other Philly pitchers on 10 occasions, and in all has taken part in 23 contests, or more than any other hurler in either of the big circuits. And to add insult to injury he has taken four games from the club that jumped at the chance to get rid of him. Shotton apparently has the last laugh.

STEVE SWETONIC made a neat start in the only inning he has pitched this season, retiring the Robins in order, but no amount of good pitching is going to be of any use to the Pirates if the hitters can't be brought out of their long trance, particularly against lefthanders. In nine of their last 11 games up to today the Rovers were opposed by southpaws, and of those nine tilts with forkhanders they lost no fewer than eight, the lone success having been scored at the expense of Clarence Mitchell, of the Giants. Two games were dropped to Bill Clark, two to Joe Shaute, and one each to Mitchell, Carl Hubbell, Bill Walker and Fred Heimach. The game in which Heimach trimmed the Bucs yesterday was the only complete contest he has pitched this year and his first victory since Memorial Day.



Laverne Fator

IN DRIVING Blind Bowboy home to victory at Aqueduct for his 1,000th winning race in a saddle career that had its beginning on a Cuban track in 1919, Laverne Fator reached a goal that has been attained by few jockeys at American racing plants.

The only other now working in the East who has handled 1,000 winners is Mack Garner, employed by Joseph E. Widener, and he has been riding several years longer than Fator. A majority of his victories were scored in the West. The American leadership in this respect is held by Jimmy Butwell, now an assistant trainer for Willie Shea. He guided more than 1,100 horses to first money.

THE RECORD FOR most winners in a lifetime was established by Fred Archer, England's star of the old days, who piled up 2,748 victories from 1870 to 1885. Danny Maher, riding in this country and England, piloted 1,771 winners in 6,790 races. Eddie Sande has ridden 956 winners in 3,590 mounts.

Fator, who followed up his 1,000th win by finishing second in the fifth race at Aqueduct yesterday, has had 4,372 mounts up to date. In addition to his 1,000 victories he has finished second 752 times, third

BRAME TO OPPOSE PHILLIES

PARKS ROUTED BY DEFENDING CHAMPION

CHICAGO, June 25.—Pittsburgh golfers in the intercollegiate championship tournament in progress here faded out of the picture abruptly yesterday. Three of them won their first-round matches only to lose out in the afternoon play, while the fourth was beaten in the opening match of the morning.

Sam Parks, Fred Brand and J. B. Royston, representing Pitt, Penn State and Michigan respectively, got by the first round without a great deal of difficulty, but were as easily disposed of in the afternoon matches. Denny St. Clair, of Williams, carried his Yale opponent, Reese, to the seventeenth hole before succumbing, 3 and 1, in the first round.

In the afternoon, Parks was the first to be eliminated, going down under a barrage of birdies by George Dunlap, of Princeton, the defending champion, 6 and 5. Brand lost to Rainwater, of Tulane, 5 and 4, and Royston to Redmond, of Notre Dame, 4 and 2.

The Parks-Dunlap match was most unusual for the first nine not a single hole being halved. Dunlap won seven of them and Parks two to leave Sam five down at the turn. Dunlap had three birdies in this nine and won the match at the thirteenth with another.

Rainwater had almost as easy a

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: IN 1816 IT SNOWED DURING THE SUMMER—In the history of climatic phenomena, the year 1816 forever will be remarkable as the "year without a summer." Atmospheric conditions during the summer months were unique. In New England and the Northern Atlantic States it snowed during the greater part of June, July and August. The sun did not shine once during this time. Crops refused to ripen and fruit trees bore no fruit during that year. (See: "Every Day Educator," by Seymour Eaton, 1892, J. S. Algilvie Publishing Company.) FRANK SCHULLER—In 1916, Schuller, who was in the Austro-Hungarian armies, was subject to Franz Joseph, Kaiser of Austria and King of Hungary. In 1917, he became subject to Carl, Kaiser and King after Franz Joseph's death. According to the Versailles Treaty, Schuller became subject to Ferdinand, King of Rumania, in 1919, and was in the Rumanian army, which he deserted, and was forced into the Horty army, making him subject to President Horty, of Hungary. In 1921, while in America, Schuller still was a subject to Rumania under King Michael, and, in 1930, he became a citizen of the United States. Over a period of 14 years, Schuller was under two kaisers, four kings and two presidents and served in four armies. AN EAR OF CORN WITH 17 ROWS—In my search for the unusual, this 17-row ear of corn is the first one with an odd number of rows of which I have found a record. It was found during the harvest season of 1930 by Everett Kelderhouse, of Collins, Ia.

BUCCOS LOSE DOUBLE BILL TO ROBINS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—There was nothing of an inspirational nature about the Pirates this morning as they prepared to open a series with the so-called lowly Phils. The lowly Phils is a phrase full of irony to the once proud Pittsburghers, who are now looking up toward the club which for many years they used as a football.

Through a period of 10 years or more the haughty athletes of Western Pennsylvania tolerated the Quakers as they looked down upon them from a position among the elect. But the depression has hit the Buccos and there is little or no relief in sight.

BRAME TO HURL

Ervin Brame is ready to go to the slab this afternoon in the first game of the series. He is likely to be opposed by Recruit Watt, one of the new righthanders of the home corps.

The two clubs are slated to mix in four games, a doubleheader being carded for Saturday.

The Buccos were close to the pitiful stage as they dropped two games to the Robins yesterday. The scores were 6 to 4 and 5 to 3, the sad feature being that the freebooters had excellent chances to win both games.

The crying infield weakness stood out in the first defeat. Larry French pitched much better ball than the score would indicate. He was given bad support, but that is getting to be a daily story with the Buccos.

Remy Kramer went down to defeat in the second fight. Kremer had two bad innings, but if the Buccos had taken advantage of some of their opportunities they could have turned the struggle.

FINNEY FAILS

The sad plight of the Ensmen was brought out in the ninth inning of the second scrap when, with enough runs on the sacks to force a deadlock, Skipper Ens had to call upon a rookie to deliver at the plate.

Sorely pressed for lack of hitters, and with a southpaw in action against him, as usual, Ens sent Hal Finney to the barrier. He looked at a third strike with his bat on his shoulder.

Uncle Robbie followed the suit of other pilots and saved two southpaws for the Pirates. Joe Shaute and Fred Heimach are a pair of veterans who were cas

JACOBS DOWNS CHICAGO STAR

HAVERFORD, Pa., June 25.—(AP.)—College tennis players yesterday crowded into a few hours two days of play in the national intercollegiate singles championships. One favorite felt the sting of defeat.

Wilmer Hines, of the University of North Carolina, seeded No. 8, met defeat before the slashing game of Capt. Earl Taylor, of the University of Texas. Shortly after Taylor had scored this upset, however, he was eliminated in a fourth round match by R. W. Ryan, captain of the Yale team, 6-4, 1-6, 10-8.

SCOTTIES DROP TWO GAMES

If Scottdale is going to remain near the top in the Mid-Atlantic League, the Pennsylvanians will have to take a sudde brace. Yesterday the Scotties lost further ground by dropping a double-header to the league leaders, Charleston, 7 to 3 and 3 to 0.

Beckley continued to plug away by beating Clarksburg, 8 to 1, but failed to gain on the first and second teams, as Charleston won two and Cumberland walloped Johnstown, 10 to 2.

Fairmont defeated Charleroi, 11 to 7, and Wheeling nosed out Huntington, 3 to 2. The Altoona-Hagerstown game was postponed when Hagerstown was unable to arrive in time for the game, due to a breakdown of the team's bus en route.

LOOK OUT BELOW! The yawning cellar isn't far below the sinking Pirates, and if Jewel Ens doesn't soon find a way to halt the descent the rapid slide of the Buccaners may culminate in a plunge into eighth place.

Four weeks ago it looked as if the Reds' only purpose in life was to fatten the percentages of other clubs, but they seem to have turned that role over to the Corsairs. Since May 29 the Bucs have won only six games out of 24, while the Reds have won 14 out of 29, a gain of five and a half games for the Howleys, with the result that the Ensmen are only three and a half games from the bottom and still going down at close to record speed, as attested by the loss of 11 of their last 13 bouts.

BEATEN THREE TIMES in the last four games by the lowest two clubs in the American League, the A's have finally lost two contests in succession for the first time in a string of 51 engagements, or since April 20 and 21, when the Yankees spilled them twice in a row. The second consecutive defeat at the hands of the Browns did not cut into the Mackmen's pennant lead, however, owing to the fall of the Senators in Detroit, and the White Elephants' margin remains at two and a half box scores, a full game less than the distance to which the Cards stretched their lead in the National by flogging the Phils twice while the Giants and Cubs were splitting a doubleheader.

IN EXPRESSING COMPLETE satisfaction with the new and less lively ball in use this year, the National League club owners will be backed up by the majority of the patrons. Even in Pittsburgh, a disappointing season for the Pirates has not kept the fans from realizing that the games all around are more scientific and interesting than in recent years.

The finding of the magnates that the abolition of the sacrifice fly has had only a slight effect upon the batting averages bears out the figures published in the Sun-Telegraph a month ago, showing that if the same scoring regulations had been in force last year the average reduction in the batting marks of the Pirate regulars would have been less than six points. This year, seemingly, the rule change will make no difference at all to the Bues. They rarely hit a fly long enough to advance a base runner, if any.

IF HIS RECORD against other foreign-born fighters could be accepted as an indication of his chances, Billy Petrolle would appear to have nothing to fear in his 10-round battle at New York tonight with Justo Suarez, the Argentine battler.

For Petrolle, himself a native of Berwick, Columbia County, Pa., though he learned his boxing in Fargo, N. D., knocked out Hilario Martinez, of Spain, in three rounds; Les Murray, of Australia, in three; Armand Schackels, of Belgium, in three; Jack (Kid) Berg, of England, in five, and Stan Loayza, of Chile, in two, besides winning decisions over Jimmy McLarnin, Irish born; Alf Simmons, of England, and Jimmy Borde, of France.

Justo Suarez

BUT PETROLLE WILL find Suarez a much tougher proposition than his earlier foreign foemen, barring McLarnin and Berg, who won decisions over Billy after losing to him once. Though the Fargo puncher has knocked out 41 men in 115 fights, the Argentinian has an even better kayo percentage, with 12 to his credit in 22 bouts. Suarez walks in shooting, is fast and can punch, and he has more than a fair chance to win tonight, inasmuch as Petrolle may have had considerable taken out of him by the beating he recently received from McLarnin. It ought to be one of the best fights of the year, and the winner may loom as a formidable candidate for the lightweight championship, if still able to make the class poundage without being weakened.

Pittsburgh's only boxing show of the week with the Jackie Rodgers-Chico Cisneros return battle scheduled at the Meyers Bowl last Monday night set back one week, is on the calendar for tonight, at Hickey Park, Millvale, with Joey Goodman, of Cleveland, and Ray Kiser, of Tulsa, Okla., two rugged lightweights, appearing in the 10-round main bout.

Jimmy Guthrie, two-fisted punching middleweight, of Akron, boxes Billy Bruns, of Erie, in the eight-round semi-final; Joey Spiegel, Uniontown southpaw lightweight, battles Matty Oldach, of Erie, in the second bout, and Carl Cesko, of Uniontown, and Anson Green, Homestead Negro middleweight, meet in a return bout in the opener, at 8:45.

Between Rounds

The Maxie Rosenbloom-Jimmy Slattery bout for the world light-heavyweight title at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, August 12, will be the seventh of their series. Slattery has won four of the clashes.

Gorilla Jones and George Courtney have been matched for the windup of a show in the Harvard Arena, formerly Taylor Bowl, in Cleveland, next Thursday night, the eve of the Max Schmeling-Young Stribling battle for the world heavyweight championship.

Jack Sharkey will enter the ring a decided favorite over Mickey Walker in their battle for the heavyweight title (as approved by the New York commission, which does not recognize Schmeling as the champion), in New York next month, for the reason that, while Walker has proved a man-killer against big, slow heavies since he gave up defending the middleweight title, doing the same thing to a fast moving boxer of the Sharkey type is something else again.

Vince Dundee, ranking middleweight of the world, is on the broad Atlantic, bound for bouts with Marcel Thil, in Paris, and Len Harvey, in London. It will be his third clash with Harvey, whom he defeated twice in Madison Square Garden, New York.

The card has been completed for the Jackie Rodgers-Chico Cisneros show at the Meyers Bowl next Monday night with Doc Segning of Benny Goldblatt, formerly of Chicago, now of the Hill, to box Andy Andrucci, of the East End, in the six-round second bout. This battle marks the return of Andrucci to the ring following a layoff of several months. Marty Gornick boxes Harry Fine in the eight-round semi-final, and Sammy Paris and Jackie Wilson are in the opener.

Bunny Buntach, manager of Buck McTiernan, has a new 165-pounder under his wing in the person of Winn (Red) Lyday, who will make his first local appearance in one of the preliminaries to Buck's bout with Ted Yarosz at Hickey Park next Thursday night.

In line with suggestions for local matches made in yesterday's Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, the Meyers Bowl today announced the signing of Willie Davies and Mose Butch for a windup bout in its arena on the night of July 6. Butch created a set of talk among the fans with a sensational one-round knockout victory over Harry Fierro, of Chicago, in the Bowl ring Monday night of last week.

Mrs. Thompson In Semi-Finals

BALTIMORE, June 25.—(AP.)—The four seeded players remain out of 54 as the Maryland women's tennis tournament entered the semi-finals at the Baltimore Country Club.

The four that remain are Mrs. De Lloyd Thompson, of Washington, Pa., the defending champion; Miss Celecia Reigel, of Philadelphia; Eleanor Cottman, Baltimore, the runner-up in the tournament last year, and Miss Margaret Carspecken, of Morgantown, W. Va.

DONOHUE RELEASED

CLEVELAND, June 25. (AP.)—Pete Donohue, veteran pitcher, formerly of the Cincinnati Reds and New York Giants, was given his unconditional release yesterday by the Cleveland Indians. He had been signed as a relief hurler after his release by the Giants.

West Va. Promoter To Open With McTiernan

Not satisfied with boxing the undefeated Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, in the main bout at Hickey Park, Millvale, Wednesday night of next week, he also will battle in the feature number of the opening show of a new arena in Huntington, W. Va., on the afternoon of the following Saturday, July 4, his manager, Bunny Buntach, announced today. Pat Caneta is promoting the latter show.

West Penn League Leaders Face Important Games

LEADERS CLASH IN MATCHES TODAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

A complete program of action extending over all branches of tournament play comprises todays' competition in the forty-third annual Western Pennsylvania tennis championships, in progress since Saturday on the clay courts of the Stanton Heights Golf Club here.

Women's singles and doubles mulling will occupy morning attention exclusively, except for interia, at 11:30, when Dr. John O'Loughlin will attempt conclusions with youthful Paul Critchlow, Jr., of Sewickley.

FEATURES CARDED

The afternoon card, featuring fourth-round man-to-man combat, should offer much of the finest sharpshooting of the tourney. Beginning at 1 o'clock with Champion Bill Haseltine engaging Leonard Reed, Edgewood star, who is staging an auspicious comeback after two years in Texas, the slate continues through such delectable encounters as those of Paul Barber, of Penn State, and Billy Ramsay, of Uniontown and Lafayette; Dr. Dave O'Loughlin, P. A. A. and Bill Thompson, Wash-Jeff leader, and Sam Harbison, Princeton varsity mainstay, with Frank Broida.

Return of good weather yesterday rendered possible large inroads into the flock of tussles accumulated as a result of the rain-abbreviated sessions of Monday and Tuesday. Women's singles and men's doubles were inaugurated, while men's singles tilting was resumed.

FAVORITES ADVANCE

Favorites advanced without exception in the man-to-man battling, those seeded satellites who cavorted at all—Ramsay, Arkle, Dave O'Loughlin and Harbison—breezing through in consecutive sets and without serious opposition.

The two-man scrimmaging ran pretty truly to form, but the feminine singles saw outstanding reversal as Betty Wattles, P. A. A. driver and fourth seeded starter, faltered before the chopping of Mrs. Caroline Kurtz, South Hills aspirant, to go under at 6-2, 6-4. Miriam Sullivan, likewise of the Winged Head, and Mrs. Jean Artzberger, of Mt. Lebanon — seeded first and second in the order named — bagged straight-set wins. The summary:

Mickey Finn was the batting hero of both games. Mickey connected for a single in the eighth inning of the first game that scored the winning run. Two were out at the time.

Finn found three of his mates on the bases and two out when he faced Kremer in the first round of the second game. His resultant single had an important bearing on this contest, as it scored two runs.

Corbett Favored As Fight Official

CLEVELAND, June 25.—(AP.)—Dick Dunn, promoter of the forthcoming Schmeling-Stribling heavyweight championship fight, said he would present the names of the three men he favors as referee and judges at a meeting of the Cleveland Boxing Commission today.

The promoter will ask that on the night of the fight these three names be placed in hat and one drawn to act as referee. The other two would be judges.

HAGEN LINES UP RYDER CUP TEAM

COLUMBUS, June 25.—(AP.)—America's battle line for the international Ryder Cup matches with England was completed yesterday with the addition of Densmore Shute, and the rival captains immediately plunged into separate huddles with their mates to outguess the other with their starting lineups.

Shute, regarded as a fine match player, joined Walter Hagen's team by beating out Frank Walsh, of Chicago, and Henry Cuici, of Bridgeport, Conn., in the 18-hole playoff for the tenth and last place on the team. The Ohioan skimmed over the Scioto course in even par 72.

No sooner had Shute joined his ranks than Sir Walter called his men together and started to do some planning for the international duels, which get under way tomorrow. Like Charles Whitcombe, captain of the British forces, he refused to make his plans public.

His intimation was that he would try strategy by pairing some of the supposedly weaker players of the American team together against the Britons tomorrow. Thus his "big shots" would not have to strain so hard in those matches and would be fresher for their singles on Saturday. The lineup probably will be Farrell and Sarazen, Diegel and Espinosa, Cox and Burke, and himself and Shute.

MAXIE STAGES LONG DRILL

CONNEAUT LAKE PARK, Pa., June 25.—(INS.)—Max Schmeling, who defends his heavyweight title in Cleveland on July 3 against Young Stribling, rested today at his training camp here. He will box again tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday.

The champion boxed eight rounds yesterday and went faster in the final round than in the first. After eight rounds, he did two of calisthenics without a rest period, and left the arena fresh and smiling to the cheers of a big week-end crowd of 1,500 persons.

Schmeling boxed two rounds with Natie Brown, the California heavyweight; two with Steve Simon, Erie stringbean; three with George Panka, Pittsburgh heavy, and one with Tony Marullo, New Orleans.

Max practiced blocking and his new right uppercut at close quarters with Brown. He also cracked Brown on the chin with two straight rights. Max brought blood to Simon in the second round and had him rocking at the end. Panka did fairly well in the first round, but did much catching in next two. He was bleeding and groggy at the conclusion.

Schmeling will attend a soccer game between the German Sports Club, of Pittsburgh, and the Bruell Germans, of Cleveland, at a German sendoff day here Sunday.

STRIB DRILLS TONIGHT

GEAUGA LAKE, O., June 24.—Young Stribling resumes work tonight for his heavyweight championship bout with Max Schmeling in Cleveland one week from tomorrow night. Frankie Cawley, who made his debut as a sparring partner Tuesday night, will work out with the challenger again. Only two boxing workouts are slated after tonight's session.

Mihm to Enter Tech Next Fall

Joe Mihm, four-sport star at Schenley High School, will enroll as a student at Carnegie Tech next fall and will be a candidate on the Plebe football team.

Ralph Berg and Merrill Straw, Turtle Creek Union stars, also have enrolled at Tech.

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

DETROIT, June 25.—Admirers often mistake Uncle Nick for an investment counsel, and ask if they can clean up a fortune in baseball pools. I'm glad they asked me. I have not done any fancy investing since Ponzi tripled my savings and then got caught trying to stretch them into a home run. Instead of putting your dough in baseball pools, however, a safer method is to wrap all your surplus in a silk handkerchief, go down to the nearest street corner and chuck it in the sewer. You at least know where your money has gone and you have as much chance of getting it back, with accrued sewage, as if you bought a purple ticket with a serial number a yard long.

MIXED MATCH AT EDGEWOOD

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

About 200 are expected to participate this afternoon in the mixed foursome tournament at the Edgewood Country Club in one of the classic events of the season. It is the only local golf competition.

At the Greensburg Country Club, a fine field is endeavoring to qualify in the annual Westmoreland County championship.

Mrs. F. M. Sloan, chairman of the golf committee at Edgewood, expects an entry even larger than that of last year's tourney.

SMITH CONTENDER

A prime contender for the Westmoreland County championship, which is a three-day affair, is the new West Penn seniors' champion, Robert W. Smith, who appears to be playing at his best at this time.

Tomorrow, while national golf interest will be enhanced with the first tilting in the Ryder Cup matches, emblematic of international professional team supremacy between the United States and Great Britain, and the onward march of the intercollegiate championship at Olympia Fields, the big match of Section I, of the team league of the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania, is to be staged at the Oakmont Country Club.

In conjunction with the Ryder Cup play, the first National P. G. A. convention is being held.

Emil Loeffler, of Oakmont, and Perry Del Vecchio, of Greensburg, leading national open qualifiers here, will leave Saturday for Toledo, where they will play in the titular competition at Inverness, July 2-4.

PARKS IN OPEN

Sam Parks, Jr., of Highland, who was eliminated from the intercollegiate championship yesterday afternoon by the defending champion, George T. Dunlap, Jr., of Princeton, is the only Pittsburgh amateur who will play in the national open tourney, and it is expected, he will proceed from Chicago to Toledo to practice up for that stiff test.

Yesterday the last 18 holes of the annual 36-hole Grogan Cup match, emblematic of team supremacy between the Highland and Shannopin country clubs, was played at Highland. The Highlanders regained the cup by a score of 122 to 88.

ACES BATTLE GRIFFINS IN FEATURE

By TOM BIRKS

With the two teams tied for the lead swinging into action in the West Penn loop, this evening, there is a possibility that a change in the standing may be noted when the games are over.

The Homestead Aces, led by Jack Fertig, with only one setback in 13 starts, will meet the Marty Griffin club. The last meeting between these outfits flashed one of the greatest games witnessed on the sandlots this season. Osmonga, for the Aces, faced Bell, of the Griffins, on the slab, and the Steelworkers won in extra innings.

RELIANCE PLAYS SAINTS

Reliance, very much in the race, will tangle with St. Joachim. The Insurance team should win, but baseball is very uncertain and anything may happen.

Three games will be flashed in the City League. Homewood can get revenge for that last defeat by the Thomas nine by stopping J. L. outfit at Bloomfield. Dormont will meet the N. S. Civics. It can be safely said that 25 runs will not be scored in this session, and Dormont will not find Harp Vaughan pitching, either.

The Buicks, under Johnny Dunsky, will go to Olympia Park to meet Books. Dunsky is having a tough time just now. The team is in a slump and the cash customers are staying away.

The Lineys and Jena Club meet in a benefit game at Langley Field. The proceeds will go to Tom McNany, who suffered a broken ankle in a recent game.

GRAYS PLAY HILLDALE

The Homestead Grays open a four-game series with the crack Hilldale Negro club, of Philadelphia, at Forbes Field this evening beginning at 6:15. The teams play again at Edgar Thomson field, Braddock, tomorrow evening and engage in a double-header at Forbes Field Saturday afternoon. Three former Grays, Judy Johnson, Martin Dihigo and Babe Cannady, are in the Hilldale lineup. Willie Foster will pitch for the locals, who have lost their last two games, to Dormont and Altoona Works.

Dormont clambered back into the lead in the City League last evening by turning in its second triumph of the week over Book Shoe, winning this one 8 to 4. Homewood was idle, so the South Hills entry now leads by half a game.

HURLER SUSPENDED

COLUMBUS, June 25.—(AP.)—Archie Campbell, right handed pitching star for the Columbus American Association baseball club, was suspended indefinitely without pay yesterday for violation of training rules and insubordination. Larry MacPhail, president of the Red Birds, did not indicate Campbell's future status.

Tunney Thinks Stribling Will Beat Max

COLUMBUS, June 25.—(AP.)—Gene Tunney came to Ohio yesterday to plant a tree, dig up a few friendly divots, before watching the professional golfing clans in action—and talk a little fight.

He thinks Bill Stribling will whip Max Schmeling at Cleveland the night of July 3, when they battle 15 rounds for the world's heavyweight championship that Tunney discarded three years ago.

Royston was badly beaten in the first part of his match, but postponed Redmond's victory by taking four holes in a row after being seven down at the eleventh.

Ohio State shared honors which had been Yale's as the tournament advanced into the third round, and the western conference matched the performance of the East's "big three."

Two Buckeyes and two Bull Dogs won their way into the 36-hole matches of the quarter-finals today. They were Johnny Florio and Robert Kepler, of Ohio State, and Sidney W. Noyes, Jr., and T. J. Aycock, Jr., of Yale.

Critz, Shoulder Sore, Quits Giants' Lineup

NEW YORK, June 25.—(INS.)—Second Baseman Hugh Critz, of the New York Giants, was out of the lineup again today because of a sore shoulder. He will be unable to play for some time, fears being expressed in some quarters that he might be incapacitated for as long as two months.

STOCK MARKET CONTINUES TO ADVANCE

Further Gain in Prices of Metal, Reichsbank Credit, Mellon Visit Aid Rise

NEW YORK, June 25.—(AP.)—The stock market was kept boiling today, as further advances in non-ferrous metal prices, announcement of a $100,000,000 credit to the Reichsbank, and the visit of Secretary Mellon to Paris, added fresh fuel to the fires of bullishness.

Copper shares led a feverish upturn which embraced most of the list. Trading swelled to such volume that the ticker fell several minutes behind transactions. Occasional waves of profit taking swept through the market, and the rails behaved somewhat confusedly at times, but Wall Street's reborn optimism was well maintained.

Anaconda pushed up 3 points in enthusiastic buying, as directors maintained the $1.50 annual dividend rate. Calumet and Arizona, National Lead, Kennecott, Phelps Dodge and Cerre de Pasco pushed up substantially. Issues rising 2 or 3 points included U. S. Steel, International Harvester, Air Reduction, McKesson & Robbins, Liggett & Myers, Du Pont, Stone & Webster, American Water Works, Woolworth, Johns Manville and New York Central.

The railroad stocks reflected some confusion over the reply to the Interstate Commerce Comsion's request for further information regarding the proposed 15 per cent freight rate increase. The carriers explanation that "it is not proposed to make any specific exceptions on any commodities" was generally interpreted in Wall street as a move to get action without the delay which would be necessitated by going over the rate structures in detail at this time. If a horizontal increase is agreed upon, specific competition from other forms of transportation could be taken up later.

Copper prices were put up another ¼ of a cent, to 8¾ cents a pound, making a gain of ¾ this week. Nine-cent metal is expected shortly. Lead and silver prices also firmed again.

Big Markets in Orient Feel Silver Slump

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(AP.)—Virtually every American advocate of silver stabilization emphasizes the benefit to be derived by the United States from the economic rehabilitation of China. A peaceful, industrious China with stable credits is pictured as a market of tremendous value, a boon not only to the lumber and kerosene exporter, but to the wheat farmer, cotton grower and the factory worker as well. Conversely, a depressed China, its buying capacity crippled, is seen as a menace to American economic well-being.

An Orient with its yardstick, silver, at a reasonable exchange value, is depicted as the greatest potential customer of a high geared industrial machine which is alleged to have saturated the American home market.

Businessmen familiar with conditions in China say its great need, along with peace and money, is an adequate internal transportation system.

China Needs Highways

SOME HAVE SUGGESTED that the United States, either by itself or with other powers, finance the building of highways in China and oversee the work to insure that funds are expended for the loan and that new revenues are allotted for repayment of the loan.

The Senate committee, which investigated the conditions of American commerce with China, concluded that "there must be work provided in China or there will be war. The people through lack of work are compelled to fight in armies in order to get food. Many of them feel they have to loot to live."

Building highways is advocated to give work to multitudes of Chinese, including those now in the armies of the various war lords and others who have no means of livelihood.

This, it is claimed, also would have a market for quantities of road construction machinery and materials, completion of the highway system would be followed, it is said, by an enormous demand for motor vehicles, accessories and fuel which in turn would make it possible to bring out products of various kinds from the interior of China.

Affects Grain Prices

SOME EXPORTERS HAVE expressed the opinion that a stabilized China would consume the entire wheat surplus of the United States. On the other hand, an impoverished Orient, higher priced silver advocates contend, has a marked depressing effect on agriculture in the United States.

Very low wheat in India, they say, means lower wheat in the United States and Argentina. Indian wheat is considered inferior to Canadian or American wheat, but it is bought when obtainable at a price sufficiently low enough to offset its relatively poor quality.

Depression in the Orient is likewise described as adversely affecting the cotton grower in this country. When India or China cuts down its purchases the textile industry buys less cotton and the southern farmer buys less silk from Japan. And so the depression spreads in growing circles.

STOCK EXCHANGE TOPICS

Kelly-Springfield Sales On Upward Trend Recently.

Kelly-Springfield sales have been showing a favorable uptrend recently. Shipments to dealers in May were 13 per cent higher than in the corresponding month last year, and also have been larger for the first five months than a year ago. Business so far in June has been at a higher rate than in both the preceding month and in June, 1930. A further constructive factor in the company's affairs is the extensive reduction in costs which has been effected by the new management since it assumed control last March.

Estimates in Wall street are that Sandard Brands will show earnings of around 33 cents a share in the second quarter. This would be only slightly under the final three months of 1930, the best of that year, when 34 cents a share was shown. In the first quarter of this year, 30 cents was reported. The popular opinion is that results in the final half of the year will be much better than those for the first six months.

New regulations governing elevator operation in this city will become effective next month. They will allow an increase in speed to 1,200 feet per minute from 700 feet, while double-deck cars and two cars within one shaft will be permitted. It is possible that with any improvement in general business conditions these new regulations will bring considerable replacement business to Otis Elevator.

That short covering is a potent force in the current market rise is generally conceded, and likewise it is admitted that considerable public buying is asserting itself. But the opinion is usually conservative quarters is that the real impetus for the advance is being provided by the activities of powerful banking groups. As one keen observer aptly put it "The handwriting is on the wall." The motive of the bankers, it is believed, is to crystallize if possible the change in sentiment which has come about in the last few days through the market and carry its momentum over into general business.

Radio monopolized the center of the speculative stage in the early afternoon yesterday coincident with the announcement that the Federal Radio Commission had decided to renew the licenses of the corporation and its subsidiaries. These licenses had been under considerable dispute on the claim that Radio had been found guilty of violation of the anti-trust laws. The decision of the commission was not unanimous, two of its five members opposing it. Radio however, was driven up spectacularly for a net gain of nearly 5 points, showing a net appreciation of more than 33 per cent on the day. The pace of the advance logically enough attracted heavy profit taking under which the stock backed down from the peak levels.

Those who place extreme faith in the weight of past performance and seeming established market precedent are of the opinion that the current "bear market cycle" is definitely over. Such conclusion is based on the fact that since the market turned downward in 1929 we have now had four distinct and severe downward price swings, the last having culminated on June 2, when the market disclosed a drop of more than 62 per cent from the bull peak. It is shown that each of the recurrent bear markets from 1899 down to the present time, has been marked by three to four distinct downward swings which had carried prices down an average of from 33 per cent in the 1899-1900 bear movement, to 46-47 per cent in the 1919-1921 deflation period.

Gerkes Given Credit for Rarick's New Wisdom

CHAPTER XLII

"It was Felix Gerkes," Rarick went on, "who first set my mind working along lines toward which I had previously had only a sort of subconscious predisposition. My friend is at once a simple and profound man."

"I see," said Gratton, "where Mengelberg intimated in Berlin the other day, after commenting on Gerkes' last book on the theory of life, that the Nobel prize is once more about to come to America."

"That will mean little to Gerkes."

"It should mean a great deal to you, who have made so much of his contribution to knowledge possible."

"Probably it does, Gratton. That's a snapshot of Gerkes there on the table. It came this morning."

"He has the face of a happy person. So has the woman!"

"He took his wife from the Eskimos, whom he considers the happiest people he has ever encountered. I was about to tell you, not meaning to digress to the subject of my friend Gerkes, that it was he who unconsciously sent my subconsciousness to the surface. Before he left us down here, for his new life in the North, he used to sit around with me evenings, and more or less idly, let fall out of the vast storehouses of his mind, some of his philosophies on preventive philanthropy."

"Yes."

"Oh, I know most of it might have seemed obvious to a man like you, Gratton, but it was strangely new to me at the time. I realize now that much of what he said had been smoldering in my subconsciousness for years, but just the same, it was he who started me on the concrete thinking-out and writing of this shaggy monstrosity of a manuscript."

PHILANTHROPIES

"Three years it has been in the writing. One of its by no means most important results is that you see me sitting here, Gratton, in a house that, pending my death, is only a loan to me.

"I no longer own one stone in it, but lease it from those who do and with the sale of some vast lumber properties in Maine and Canada last month, I now own not one acre of God's territory with the exception of certain colossal and indirect mortgage holdings which in their turn will be converted. I am, of course, still a man heavily encumbered with wealth of practically every sort of valuable human possession, but already forty million of my dollars are committed to preventive philanthropies."

"It isn't easy for a man whose bank balance has never been larger than $900 to have much of a conception of $40,000,000."

"I have endowed no cancer hospitals, but have given with what I hope is the cumulative wisdom that is coming to men who have come into the phenomenal kind of wealth that is possible only in this country great fortunes toward the prevention of the disease. Nothing new in all this, you say. No, but look more deeply into it and see how prolonged has been the infancy of this idea. And there is but little time left for me. My money must pour back to the people in a fresh blood transfusion. I want to wrap no rags around social sores. To accomplish, I must personally administer my moneys while I live. I must die a poor man. You see that?"

"Yes."

DAUGHTER'S INCOME

"My sole heir is my daughter Jennifer. For that reason and another equally important one, she comes into no properties at my death except a life income of $8,000 a year. You live on less, don't you?"

"Yes."

"Comfortably?"

"Fairly."

"She will be stripped pretty bare of the paraphernalia that has made of her some of the things we have just been discussing, Gratton."

"She will plunge like a roped steer."

"At first."

"Think of the gigantic power for good you are about to release out of the nickels and dimes of the people."

"I have thought—and thought—and out of it has come my philosophy of why I must die a poor man and why this wealth that I have drawn out of the coin purses of American people must be released back now."

"Tremendous idea....."

"My power to forecast the nature and needs of the future is limited. Vast accumulations like mine must cope with the contemporary problems of the people who helped to create the wealth. What is the use of leaving $5,000,000 to build tubercular hospitals when two years after my death, it is not impossible that a cure or a preventive may be found for the white plague. Let future generations wrestle freshly with their fresh issues. I want to leave no moneys that a few years after my death must be expended upon dead issues because of a will made during the period when those issues were alive. My death, Gratton, is a much more important matter to the world than my life."

"So you see, my surplus fortune is not mine to leave Jennifer, even if I would. And I would not. It is difficult for me to talk to you any further than I have, young man, about my feeling of what the effect of stupendous personal wealth has been on the little group of my family. But just the same, Gratton, therein lies the tragedy of my life."

GRATTON MOVED

"A tragedy I do not intend to see perpetuated through the sole surviving member after me, my daughter, who will live to thank the dead hand that at first may seem so cruelly disciplinarian to her . . . ."

"I can. Hand me that paper on my desk."

"Here?"

"This single typewritten sheet is the boiled-down version of the five hundred and forty-eight pages of that manuscript. This simple sheet, Gratton, is my last will and testament, duly sworn and witnessed. My philosophy of life, and of death. My bow to the world, my tribute to it, my hope for its betterment, my bow out of it. My sighs for its defects, my hope for its future. My hope in my child. My faith in her. Listen," he said, and began to read.

When Gratton was moved by a scene he was writing, especially in those earlier years before his "Tragedy of Laughter" had been written, he always complained of the physical discomfort he experienced while at work. His ears rang. A curious little elevator of hunger seemed to ride up and down the pit of his stomach. His tonsils wanted to burst and his ears became bright, polished pink. Jennifer once wrote of him in a monograph: "I could tell how the work on 'Tragedy of Laughter' was coming by the color of his ears."

In addition now to those roaring symptoms, Gratton, after Rarick had completed his reading, had a horrible fear he was going to cry. Not tears, but some brute noises. The sound of an emotion scraping bottom, as the soul of the man who had just read had scraped bottom.

"There, in a nutshell, is some of the wisdom I have tried to squeeze out of my defeat, Gratton. Not much of a job to a literary man like you—but it's my legacy . . ."

IMMORTALITY

"Well—guess I'll be getting along now. Don't suppose you know it. I may be wrong. But seems to me, that's the stuff immortal literature is made of—that page you just read me. It's the thing Lincoln poured into his address at Gettysburg. It's as close to God as Senator Vests's plea for a dog. It's Shelley and Goethe crying for justice in prose. Its wisdom will live after you. I may be crazy, but that is the kind of stuff that achieves immortality. That last will and testament of yours is literature . . ."

"I don't want immortality. At the moment I want milk and some crackers. Have them with me."

"There's Jennifer!"

"Where?"

"I heard her step."

"Yes."

"Ah yes, I do hear now. Strange that you should have known her step at the great distance of the lower hall. Shall I call her?"

"No—no. I must be going."

"Strange that you should have heard her."

"I've a glove of hers. She dropped it one day. I'll ask to see her on the way out—to give it back."

Seated, small, the look of hunchback in his face, the tall, Gothic twilight climbing into vaulted shadows, the yarn of Pagliacci began to stalk across stained glass, the organ ballooning into the dusk.

DAILY SHORT STORY —And Others

Snobs Hurt by Success Of Factory Worker

Mrs. Algernon G. Garrison, sitting beside her daughter, Sonia, in church at South Weldon, saw a young man come in and accept the seat in a rear pew indicated by the usher.

Mrs. Garrison nudged her daughter and whispered, "Who is he?"

Sonia—her name had originally been Sarah, but she changed it, herself, when her father came into a fortune—took a long, steady and bold look at the young man.

The service had not started. Mrs. Garrison leaned over and asked her husband about the strange young man.

Mr. Algernon G. Garrison adjusted his pince nez with the black ribbon, and he, too, studied the lineaments of the young man.

"Stranger," he said, and shrugged his shoulders, to indicate that, in his opinion, this young man was no one of importance.

The services started. Mrs. Garrison eyed the young man occasionally. He was evidently accustomed to going to church, and at the close of the services he loitered about for a moment after the manner of one hoping to become acquainted.

INTRODUCED

Sonia nudged her mother this time. "They know each other," she murmured and moved forward.

The Rev. Bristow introduced the young man as Philip Wayne whom he had known when he was preaching in a certain college town.

"Not exactly. I am going to work in the factory," Philip answered.

"Ah, well, young sir, our factory offers steady employment," Mr. Garrison said, patronizingly.

In South Weldon "the factory" meant but one thing, the great Peerless Plush Company. It was the town's only industry of size and employed nearly five thousand, or a quarter of the town's population.

Mr. Garrison had once been boss of the dye works at this plant. If this were mentioned today Mrs. Garrison always said that her husband had once been an executive of the company before he retired.

Mr. Garrison would still be boss of the dye works if an aged aunt up in Boston had not died intestate and left him the sole living relative.

FEW FRIENDS

They had their little circle of society, the family of the bank president, the family of the general manager of the factory and a few others.

There was a sharp line drawn. It ran somewhere through the executive offices of the factory. Heads there were in the more or less hallowed South Weldon social set. All the others were simply out of it.

The Rev. Mr. Bristow secured board and lodgings for him in the home of Mrs. Hallowell, a widow, with a daughter Emmy. Mrs. Hallowell's husband had been a carpenter and builder and had not left much of a fortune. Emmy worked in the general manager's office at the factory. Mrs. Hallowell was glad to augment her income by taking in Mr. Wayne since the Rev. Mr. Bristow could heartily recommend him.

The next Sunday Mr. Wayne attended church with Mrs. Hallowell and daughter.

After the services Mr. Wayne spoke pleasantly to Sonia Garrison and her mother and father, because he had been introduced the week before. Mrs. Garrison nodded, coldly. Sonia said, "Ah, how-do" and turned away.

Mr. Wayne, the Garrisons had learned, was working in the sorting room which, next to trundling bales or nailing up crates, was about the lowest, poorest paid work in the place.

Phil Wayne seemed to be a cheerful, pleasant young man. He attended church regularly, and he went to the church socials.

He took Emmy to the charity ball in South Weldon.

Mrs. Garrison said that it was quite absurd for a factory hand to wear evening dress and aspire to mingle with the upper set. Sonia was "unable" to give him a dance.

Phil seemed to have a good time. He danced with Emmy and two or three other young ladies.

When the Evening Welkin appeared the next day with an account of this dance, it gave a list of those who were held to represent South Weldon society and then it added:

"We," Emmy said, with a giggle, "are among the 'and others,' but I don't mind that. You have to have money and be snooty and toady to the Garrisons to get into the papers here."

All through the year Phil Wayne went here and there and tried to get in with the social life of the place. He attended the community lectures, he helped with the church's spring festival, he went to lawn parties and strawberry fetes and all such things. At the New Year's Eve ball Emmy was really resplendent in a beautiful dress.

She became indignant and told Phil.

"Quite so, but we will try and amuse ourselves," Phil chuckled.

SONIA IS ANGERED

Phil Wayne worked steadily at the factory. They took him from the sorting department and put him in the textile quarters. He was quite adept at this. His work was appreciated and he received, grudgingly, to be sure, a little more money.

He ventured to buy a cheap car and paid cash for it.

One Saturday afternoon, when with Emmy, Phil stopped at the postoffice, Emmy remained in the car while Phil ran for the mail. There was no free delivery there.

Along came Sonia Garrison in her flashy phaeton. She wanted to go to the postoffice. She slowed up and frowned.

"Get your car out of there, please," she said to Emmy.

"I'm sorry, I don't know how to drive it. It belongs to Mr. Wayne."

"Will you get that junk out of there so I may park?" Sonia said, sharply.

"With alacrity, Miss Garrison, with great alacrity, just as soon as I run into the shop down here for some cigars," and Phil strolled away.

"Have that car removed," she ordered.

"Five minutes."

"You got 55 more, we allow an hour for parking," he said.

"I'll have you fired—I'll have that upstart Wayne lose his position—I'll have you, Emmy Hallowell, fired, I'll show you that you can't strut around in my father's town as if you were somebody!"

When the great charity ball took place the next week Mrs. Garrison gave orders that that Wayne person was to be told that he wasn't wanted.

HEAD OF COMPANY

But Phil Wayne was there, with Emmy, in one of the four private boxes at this village hall. He and Emmy had a nice time and danced with some strangers who had bought tickets.

In the next evening's paper almost everyone there was listed except Phil and Emmy. Once more they were the "and others."

By this time Phil had been advanced to the designing department and all went well with him. His work was well liked by the factory heads.

There was to be a great celebration. The Peerless Plush Company, Inc., was to have a great celebration and ball to celebrate it's hundredth anniversary!

Emmy giggled at her.

When the speeches started the Garrisons were aghast to see Phil Wayne on the rostrum. They nearly passed out when he was introduced as the president of the Amalgamated Plush Company, which has just absorbed the old Peerless company as a subsidiary.

He had been a year and a half studying this plant.

A jolly time was had by almost everyone except the snobs. Sonia tried to gush over Phil and he regretted that he had no dances for her.

The Evening Welkin the next day carried the names of almost everyone at this celebration, except those of the Garrisons and their handful of South Weldon snobs.

They were mentioned among the "and others."

Mayor Kline Accused

As the result of recent disclosures of the awarding of municipal contracts to high bidders and other irregularities in the expenditure of the taxpayers' money, Mayor Charles H. Kline has been accused of misdemeanor in office, and recommended for indictment by the grand jury.

It takes courage to recommend the indictment of the Mayor, and the fact that the grand jury investigating the Department of Supplies scandal did not lack the courage is cause for rejoicing.

Mayor Kline's guilt or innocence is yet to be passed upon. But a victory for civic righteousness has been gained, whatever the outcome. The grand jury's presentment is warning that no political boss, not even if he is as powerful as Mayor Kline, can "get away," unquestioned, with the things with which Kline is charged.

It was to be expected that Bertram L. Succop, under whose administration as director of the Department of Supplies the scandal developed, would be accused in the grand jury presentment. That Kline would be named was less certain. Yet there was a general feeling among thoughtful citizens that to arraign Succop without also arraigning his chief, who under the law shared responsibility for the illegal contracts, the extravagance and mismanagement, would be unfair. Hence there is undoubtedly a feeling of relief that the chief executive is not to be permitted to evade accounting for his stewardship.

The grand jury's presentment is in effect a scathing rebuke to the "Mayor's majority" in Council, composed of Herron, English, Alderdice, Connelly, Little and Muldowney, who refused to investigate the charges.

In view of the turn the scandal has taken their fitness to serve the city is brought into question. It was clearly their duty to conduct an inquiry. They refused to perform that duty. If they had had their way, Mayor Kline would never have had to answer to anybody for the misdemeanor of which the grand jury accuses him.

Milk for Children

Abandonment of School Plan Makes it Necessary for Others to Aid Undernourished Tots.

The Board of Public Education planned to furnish milk during the summer vacation to undernourished children whose parents, because of destitution, are unable to supply the tots' requirements. The board intended to appropriate $15,000 for the purpose. But the board's solicitor, J. Rodgers McCreery, has informed it there is no authority in law for such procedure, and the plan has accordingly been abandoned.

The support of these needy children must, nevertheless, not be abandoned. Since the Board of Education cannot furnish the milk, it must be furnished by other agencies.

A committee of the board is to ask the Welfare Department or other municipal authorities to assume the task. It is to be hoped the city will be able to take it up, for it is a philanthropy of such importance that the taxpayers generally might properly be asked to bear the slight expense.

If there are obstacles in the way of the city's providing the milk, the task will devolve upon the social service organizations. The Milk and Ice Fund naturally will be expected to assume the major part of the work.

It can be taken for granted that, whether or not it takes care of the children that the Board of Education planned to help, the Milk and Ice Fund will have plenty to do this summer in looking after the needs of poor children, and will use to good advantage every cent that kind-hearted Pittsburghers contribute.

Housing in Pittsburgh

Improvement in Dwellings, Facilitated by Industrial Depression, Is of Benefit to All.

The Pittsburgh Housing Association tells in its second annual report of marked improvement in our housing situation during the past year. The improvement was facilitated, strangely enough, by the industrial depression.

There have been more vacant houses recently than usual, possibly because people who had lost their jobs left the city. Many of the houses thus vacated were ramshackle firetraps. It was a golden opportunity to get rid of them.

During the first five months of this year 64 such dwellings were demolished, as compared with 63 last year and 36 in 1929.

The abundance of labor and the low cost of materials conduced also to the improvement of below-standard houses by the making of repairs, the installation of sanitary equipment, and the cleaning up of the premises.

A significant item in the association's report is that 69 per cent of the illegalities found in Pittsburgh houses last year —illegalities, that is, in respect to construction, sanitation and the like—were corrected, as against 46 per cent the year before.

Improvement in Pittsburgh's dwellings is beneficial not only to the occupants and owners but to all the people, because it promotes health, safety and morality, increases property values, and inculcates civic pride.

It looks as if the industrial depression were nearing an end. The demonstration just given of the city's ability to improve housing during hard times invalidates any excuse that may be offered for failing to do better work when prosperity returns.

Wouldn't That Villain Have a Little Pity?

Unless something happens, unless that silly hero rouses himself, unless Prohibition becomes reasonable, both unthinkable, you must tremble for this little girl.

You, perhaps, thanks to your right-off-the-boat-bootleg friend, may not know what it IS to live in an old oaken bucket. We assure you that it is terrible.

And then to think of the hideous combination, not only being forced to live in the old oaken bucket, but also being sent over the Falls of Depression!

Can you imagine it? Surely there is SOMEONE, some pitying soul SOMEWHERE, that will step forward and check this proceeding. Or isn't there?

Germany Comes Back

GERMANY'S WONDER SHIP, THAT BEAT THE VERSAILLES TREATY.

Where there is a will there is a way—when intelligence, patience and knowledge are back of the will.

This ship, built by the Germans as a surprise to the rest of the world, and recently launched, proves what can be done by a combination of science and will power.

Germany, thanks partly to this country's men and money, was beaten and forbidden to build any fighting ship of more than "10,000 tons displacement."

She put her engineers and scientists to work, on the question: "How much of a ship, how much fighting power, how much speed can you develop within the limits of 10,000 tons?"

Everything was done to save weight; $20,000,000 was spent, producing what nominally is "a cruiser under 10,000 tons," but in reality a first-class battleship with the speed of a cruiser.

Her speed is 26 knots. The range of her guns is 18 miles and on either broadside she can use six 11-inch guns, with an extreme range of 30,000 yards.

Outclassing the British, French and American ships, in speed, range and gun power, this German ship could take on a whole fleet of the other competing 10,000-ton cruisers, and, keeping out of range of their guns, sink them, one at a time.

You may take away a country's independence TEMPORARILY, you can take away its money, by the hundreds of millions of dollars a year. You can say: "You must not prepare any national defense. You must remain in a condition that will always permit us to conquer you at our case, if we choose."

But if you do not take away the BRAINS AND WILL POWER of a nation or a man, that nation or that man is not conquered.

And mystery.

Time, watching, sees no change through sleepless lids
The pyramids.

This unaccustomed sense of endless peace
Lies like a soothing hand upon the heart;
As spent tides now the worldly worries cease,
The cares depart.

The cities' tumult dwindles; very far
The fall of kings less here than one white star

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 25.—The most baffling tricksters in the illegal traffic of narcotics are said to be those roaming peddlers of Oriental rugs—the swarthy, hawk-nosed Ishmaels with rings in their ears. Some are honestly selling their wares but a pronounced number are drug hawkers.

Many graduate from the Paris boulevards where dope restrictions are not so tight. They have so perfected their system they are seldom caught. Even if arrested the most careful search fails to reveal any drugs.

Among the guild is a remarkable sign language that narcotic sleuths have been unable to master. The signals are known only to the confirmed addict who knows the danger of betrayal and is grateful for an ever-ready and quick source of supply.

Holding a certain rug before a buyer indicates a supply of morphine, cocaine or heroin. Twisting the rug, making certain passes and other varying gestures tell where the stuff can be delivered and the price. And not a word need be spoken.

If a sale is through the sign language the delivery may be made later through a waiter, a hat check girl or a taxi driver at the curb. Drug addicts always pay their dope bills. They know if they don't their supply will be cut off.

Columbus Circle, after midnight, was once a reputed distributing center. But latterly it is said to be one of many rooms in a hotel in the Times Square area, the number changing nightly.

* * *

Swiftly changing New York has obliterated almost the last vestige of its Dutch origin. At the lower tip of the Dutch Breedweg, which the English turned into the name Broadway, there were white houses with the grace of swans coming through arches, shining Holland fronts, fish-scale-like bright tiled roofs and brass knockers. All have vanished.

* * *

The most indefatigable entertainers in New York social circles are said to be the Frank V. Storrs. Scarcely an evening when in New York or at Palm Beach or the Riviera they do not have from 10 to 30 guests.

* * *

One of the most entrancing night views of New York is looking southward from a 50-some story alcove at the Hotel Pierre. Broadway becomes a dull glow-worm, spangled higher up by the sorcery of bewitching lights. Here and there grooved in the darkness are the faintly luminous spires of Chrysler, the Empire and other towers. And most beautiful of all is the minaret of the Grand Central Building arching Park avenue like a splotch of phosphorus. Such views make me depressingly aware of the futility of words. Right now I'd like to toss the typewriter out the window. Nor would I care if it grazed the cop on our beat who yelled: "It will be whitewashed tomorrow for you," when my toe hit a misplaced brick this a. m.

* * *

I believe half the awe of headwaiters is because of their names. There is something hands-off-ish about such maitre d'hotel titles as Jacques, Henri, Theodor and Gustave. Named Sam, Ike or Al I am certain they would lose more than half the imperial glamour. I have a friend whose valet came to him as Pinkie. The minute his acquaintances heard the name, Pinkie was the target for free and easy kidding. He was finally dismissed. Two years later he was taken back but under the name of Hodkinson. With that name nobody kidded.

* * *

An occasional caller is a steward on a French boat, attached to my cabin during several crossings. I also met his young son who usually came to the Havre dock to meet him. Today I asked about the lad. His eyes quickly filled and with a Gallic sweep of his hand said: "Finis!" and I don't know whether the boy passed away, disgraced his father or got married.

* * *

My wife reports the laundry has phoned my only available full dress shirt has been hopelessly scorched across the bosom and cannot be worn this evening. I professed to be put out but I'm wiring them secretly it was a swell idea.

EARTH'S AIR SHELLS

By Archibald Henderson

The recent spectacular flight of Professor Piccard and Charles Kipfer in a balloon, which broke all altitude records for human passengers, has focussed popular attention upon problems having to do with the upper air. For long scientists have been busily engaged in studying these problems. But only very recently has the general public showed any marked interest in the matter. Now when mention is made of cosmic radiation, the troposphere, the stratosphere, the tropopause and the Heaviside layer, the layman begins to sit up and take notice.

The inner shell of the atmosphere enveloping the earth is called the troposphere, the outer shell the stratosphere. The boundary between them has been called the tropopause. The lower surface of the stratosphere is only approximately a sort of spherical shell, for there are considerable variations in the height above the earth. Roughly it is estimated to be about 20,000 feet above the Poles and 50,000 feet above the Equator. On the basis of observation and calculation, Oliver Heaviside, the English physicist, in 1902 concluded that at high but unknown levels there existed an ionized region or layer, to which has been given his name. According to Heaviside, this conducting layer prevents radio signals from passing out into space. The radio signals meet this Heaviside layer and are reflected back to the earth. More recent investigations indicate that there are several such layers, all of which lie far above the stratosphere.

For long it was universally believed that temperature decreases as height above the earth increases, and without limitation so far as was known. Finally, there was made, about the time Heaviside discovered his layer, one of the most astounding discoveries in the history of meteorology. Scientists in France and Germany almost simultaneously discovered that whereas decrease of temperature goes along with increase in height in the lower part of the atmosphere, in the regions above a very different law holds. In this upper region, the thermometer registers a slight increase of temperature with ascent, but later, at even greater heights, the temperature becomes and remains approximately constant.

Within the inner layer it has been found that the temperature falls off with height at the rate of about three degrees Fahrenheit per 1,000 feet. Just how thick this inner layer is we do not know. In the center layer temperatures depend upon the balance between incoming and outgoing radiation. According to a number of scientists, this balance demands that, within this layer, the temperature remains substantially constant.

One of the fascinating problems to be solved is how thin or rarefied the air is. In his Dynamical Theory of Gases, Sir James Jeans, on the basis of a number of reasonable assumptions, has computed that at a height of 1,990 miles the air is so rarefied that a cubic centimeter contains only about 300,000 molecules of air. In the lower atmosphere the number of molecules in a cubic centimeter is the enormous figure represented by the numeral 3, followed by 19 zeros. This is 10 trillion times as much as the other. It is really surprising beyond words that there is any air at all at the height of 1,990 miles.

Much of our knowledge regarding the troposphere and the stratosphere has been gained by means of captive balloons containing scientific recording devices, but no human passenger. Prof. Piccard astounded the world by breaking all altitude records and ascending to the height of almost 10 miles. One pilot sent up in 1913 from the coast of Greenland possibly ascended to the extreme altitude of 24 miles. In September, 1930, one sent up near Hamberg, Germany, is believed on very good evidence to have ascended certainly as high as 22 miles. Sounding balloons give much promise of future developments in the study of the stratosphere. And this for the reason that they can ascend to so much greater altitudes than can a human being.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. MUNDY

Many fellows are traveling a rough financial roadway because they did not say they could not afford things which were too expensive for them.

The "good fellow" is usually the one first affected in times, hard and depressed, as the present.

He has not provided for the future and its uncertainties.

If you have had experience trying to procure loans from those you have counted as friends, you realize it is not such an easy task.

As a good fellow you may have been willing to help a friend with your last dollar and you like to say so, too.

But your good friends are as badly off as you are, and they can't help you this time.

The safe plan to adopt is to say "No" to expenditures suggested by members of your crowd when you know you cannot afford them.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

There's the gist of that June GOOD HOUSEKEEPING article by Frances Parkinson Keyes, wife of United States Senator Henry W. Keyes, of New Hampshire.

There isn't any ideal Prince Charming.

No Perfect Male, with all the askings.

If he has one thing, he hasn't another. If he can corral cash like J. D. it's a cinch he can't croon like Rudy. If, on the other hand, he's the Marcelled Marvel amongst lovers, you may have to rustle your own rent money. If he's long on athletics he's probably short on esthetics. And if he carries an Outsize Brain, how's he going to regard your pee-wee line of patter?

So, pick 'em carefully as you may, husbands are bound to be disappointing.

But then—though Mrs. Keyes doesn't carry it this far—so are wives. So is marriage. And that's not the fault of the wife or the marriage. It's the fault of our own foolish fancy.

We expect too much from husbands, wives and marriage. We expect things that no husband, wife or mating could possibly produce.

We expect they'll make us happy and keep us contented. We expect they'll quiet our questioning, settle our restlessness, dispel our loneliness, remove our blunders and smooth out our peeves. But that's utterly unreasonable! The best man on earth couldn't do that for any woman, even though he had all the money, manners and love technique the most romantic maiden might desire. And the best woman on earth couldn't do that for a man, though she were a combination Saint Cecelia—Lady Astor—Greta Garbo and Hoover Cabinet.

For keeping happy and curing our cussedness is OUR OWN PERSONAL JOB. And no one and nothing . . . save our own selves and our own personal efforts . . . can do it for us.

But Life is greater.

And you'll still have to live your own life and solve your own problems, even though you have found the most perfect love. Love will help you with that job, but not half as much as you thought, in the first dizzy throes of romance. Even the most perfect love cannot penetrate the secret places of your heart. Regardless of your chosen companions, you will ALWAYS be lonely, you will ALWAYS be bewildered and restless and dissatisfied. Some secret part of you will continue to reach out, wanting something different, wanting something more, after you're married as well as before. For these are the inevitable conditions of life—of growth—and love can't cure them.

Why are husbands and wives bound to be disappointing? That's why. We expect too much of them and of marriage. Our romantic tradition has assured us that they will iron out all our personal difficulties and make life a rosy dream. Then, when they don't and can't, we feel that we've been cheated and that marriage is a failure.

What's the secret of marriage? To get along with the other fellow? To find the one right man or woman with whom you can get along? No. THE SECRET OF MARRIAGE IS TO BE ABLE TO GET ALONG WITH YOURSELF AND CONSUME YOUR OWN SMOKE.

Squirrel Hill Wins Fight for Playgrounds

FIELDS TO STAY OPEN DURING SUMMER

Plea in Behalf of Children By Businessmen Granted By Board of Education

Squirrel Hill children will have two new playgrounds for use during the summer months as a result of the Squirrel Hill Board of Trade carrying an appeal to the Board of Public Education against closing of the Taylor Allderdice and Wightman street grounds.

School board officials today were on record as promising to keep the grounds open with attendants at each. Thomas O. Hasley, president of the trade body, said the committee has been notified the grounds will be available with the close of the school term. The school board will provide an attendant for the Allderdice grounds and the bureau of recreation will have a worker at the Wightman school, he said.

The group's protest included the Linden school grounds. This playground heretofore has operated at the expense of residents, Mr. Hasley said, and funds are being raised by parents of the district to engage an attendant this year.

The appeal to the school board was made following protests made to the trade board by residents of the district.

Presentation of the necessary number of property holders' signatures for action at the next Council meeting will probably result in drafting of the necessary ordinance. Council President Frank Kupprin said it would be possible to pass the bill on its first and second reading at that time. Borough Solicitor Verner L. Barbor will prepare the necessary ordinance.

LAND ACQUIRED FOR FUTURE EXTENSION

Chalfant Estate Property On William Penn Highway Purchased, Price Secret

One of the largest East End real estate deals made within recent months has been closed between the School District of Wilkinsburg and the heirs of John W. Chalfant.

The transaction involves the sale of a 40-acre tract of land on the William Penn highway, east of Wilkinsburg, by the Chalfant estate to Wilkinsburg schools, according to George Brothers, downtown realtors. The price paid for the property was not made public.

The tract fronts 785 feet on the William Penn Highway and extends back a distance of 2,000 feet.

BOUGHT FOR FUTURE USE

W. C. Graham, superintendent of Wilkinsburg schools, has announced that the school district will not immediately improve the property.

Superintendent Graham said:

"When we acquired the property we were looking into the future. At this time the Wilkinsburg school district is not contemplating any construction on the property as we have sufficient building space to care for our pupils.

"We are of the opinion that this tract of land is particularly desirable. In my opinion Wilkinsburg will grow towards the east section."

IMPROVEMENTS CITED

Superintendent Graham also explained that although the property is not within the borough limits, the Wilkinsburg School district is permitted to acquire property outside the borough.

East End realtors express opinions similar to Graham's in regard to the potential values of real estate along the William Penn Highway, east of Wilkinsburg.

The realtors point to the public improvements made recently in that section. The improvements include the new Graham boulevard, connecting Laketon road with the William Penn Highway, the Wilkinsburg Airport and the proposed road link between Frankstown road and the William Penn Highway. The new road, a county project, will follow the old Crab Hollow road bed.

2 SCHOOL JOBS TOTAL $264,662

The Larimer Elementary School, Larimer avenue, will be remodeled to fit the modern platoon system of education. The Navarro Company was awarded the building contract on a bid of $148,000. The basement will be reconstructed and fireproof stairs installed, the work requiring the school's opening in the fall to be postponed until October.
